London Reports Sinking of Sixth Bismarck Supply Ship; Brest Hit.

BULLETIN

BERLIN — (INS) — The high command announced today that a German submarine sank a large British liner in the South Atlantic. Name of the ship sent to the bottom is not yet known.

BULLETIN

CAIRO—(AP)—The British and free French forces in Syria "have substantially increased the areas of their penetration," the British middle east high command said today.

(By International News Service)

Shattering raids on Germany's great industrial district in the Ruhr and Nazi bases on the French coast were announced by Great Britain today as her forces in Syria sought to win the peaceful surrender of Damascus by negotiation.

Hundreds of British planes blasted the Ruhr plants and factories for the third successive night, according to the British announcement. Other British bombs blasted Brest where the German warships Gneisenau, Scharnhorst and Prince Eugen are believed based.

London also claimed the sinking of the sixth of the supply ships which the Germans sent out with the ill-fated Bismarck.

German raids on London were reported by the British to have been comparatively light. But Berlin claimed great damage at British ports and asserted the British raids on western Germany caused only civilian damage and casualties.

Official British quarters confirmed reports that Vichy troops have been evacuated from Kiswe, about 10 miles south of Damascus, where some of the heaviest Syrian

CLAIM SINKINGS

British Report Seven Ships Downed In Mediterranean.

LONDON—(AP)—The admiralty announced today that British submarines in the Mediterranean had sunk seven "enemy" vessels and torpedoed three others in far-reaching recent forays which carried undersea warships even into German and Italian-controlled harbors.

The vessels sunk included an Italian armed trawler and two schooners it was escorting, a loaded supply ship of about 1,000 tons torpedoed in a harbor, and two schooners and a large cargo supply lighter torpedoed in an Aegean harbor.

In addition a submarine "torpedoed and almost certainly sank" a large tanker of about 8,000 tons, another submarine torpedoed the Strombo, a 5,232-ton vessel which was "reported to have reached Istanbul having been seriously damaged," and an Italian armed merchant cruiser lying in the harbor of Bengasi "was torpedoed."

F. R. STILL ILL

Confined To White House For Sore Throat Treatment.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt remained in the living quarters of the White House today to undergo further treatment for a sore throat.

White House officials said his condition was about the same and that he had a temperature of about one-half degree above normal. The president's physician, Ross T. McIntire, requested his patient to remain away from his office and to do only official work deemed of a "must" character.

MEDIATOR ARRIVES

COLUMBUS —(INS)— An OPM mediator, Gale Smith, arrived in Columbus from Washington to attempt a settlement in the threatened strike of 100 CIO employes of the American Blower corporation which holds defense contracts from the navy.

Stronger Patrol Expected After Robin Moor Sinking

The sinking of the United States merchant ship Robin Moor by a German submarine in the mid-South Atlantic has brought a demand among high government officials for a more intensified patrol of Atlantic waters. American action in the case would be based, it is indicated, on alleged violation of an international treaty designed to humanize submarine warfare. Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, top left, has made public a report from Walter J. Linthicum, lower left, American consul at Pernambuco, Brazil, to the effect that his interview with Robin Moor survivors proved the ship was sunk by a German submarine and that the commander of the U-boat "was fully aware the vessel was American." German sources claim the vessel carried contraband.

HELD ON BOGUS MONEY CHARGES

Mansfielder Pleads Guilty, Reported to Have Linked Others In Ring.

State's evidence purportedly furnished by a Mansfield man had placed three Ohio men under heavy bonds today after they had pleaded not guilty in federal court in Columbus to an indictment listing eight charges of counterfeiting.

The men are accused of circulating bogus $10 bills in at least three states, a United Press dispatch from Columbus said.

Gus Stragala, 42, of Mansfield, pleaded guilty to the indictment and was alleged to have implicated the other men in conspiring to make counterfeit money, making and possessing money engraving plates and possessing 348 counterfeit bills.

James W. Griffin, 39, of Hanover, and Paul E. Cullison, 39, and Walter E. Courson, 36, both of Newark, entered pleas of innocent when arraigned yesterday before Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said that although his department

Wife Watches as Man Hurtles Through Window.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—Losing his balance while trying to open a jammed window sash, Herman L. Kautz, 40, president of the Interstate Laundry Supply Co., Inc., fell accidentally three stories to his death yesterday while his wife looked on helpless.

The accident happened in a storeroom of the company's business building.

Dems Have 4 Races, G. O. P. Has None for City's August Primary

Orr, Bushnell Entered In Race for Democratic Mayoralty Nomination; 29 Candidates File Petitions.

The stage was set today for the Aug. 5 municipal primary in Mansfield with 29 candidates, 17 Democrats and 12 Republicans seeking their party nominations for the 13 city offices to be filled at the general election next November.

Petitions filed with the county board of elections last night before the filing deadline indicate there will be only four primary contests, all on the Democratic ticket. The Democrats have at least one candidate for every office, but no one filed on the Republican ticket for council in the Fifth ward, usually heavily Democratic.

Mayor William J. Locke will be unopposed for the Republican nomination for mayor. Two Democrats, Fred M. Bushnell, Mansfield postmaster during the Wilson administration, and James F. Orr, typewriter dealer making his first bid for political office, filed for the party nomination for mayor.

In a surprise move just before the filing deadline, Republican Councilman George C. Kyle of the Third Ward withdrew as a candidate for ward councilman and filed for one of the councilman-at-large posts.

Replacing Kyle on the ticket is Clifford G. Knarr, 72 Ausdale avenue, only Republican who was ever elected to council from the Fifth Ward. Knarr served one term from 1926 to 1928. He is a clerk at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company plant.

G. O. P. leaders had attempted to shift Kyle to the council-at-large ticket for several days, but he declined until the last minute. The other two Republican candidates for councilman-at-large are Roy W. Vaughn, chairman of the city board of public parks commis-

PUGET SOUND LUMBER STRIKE BREAKING UP

Three Locals Plan to Resume Work Monday Under Board Of Mediation Plan.

CAMPS, MILLS RE-OPEN

AFL Machinists to Vote on Tie-Up at San Francisco Shipbuilding Yards.

(By Associated Press)

National defense mediation board officials watched west coast development today as the Puget Sound CIO lumber strike front cracked and AFL machinists in San Francisco prepared to vote tomorrow on a return to work on $500,000,000 worth of navy and merchant shipbuilding.

The three largest locals of the CIO International Woodworkers of America—whose president, O. M. Orton, last week denounced the board for "labor-busting and strikebreaking" tactics—planned to resume work Monday under a board peace plan.

They have voted to accept a 7½ cent hourly wage increase and paid vacations, resuming work while a commission makes an economic survey of the industry. These terms were rejected by leaders of the union who demanded a 10-cent boost in the present base of 67½ cents.

Operations will be resumed Monday at the big Weyerhaeuser mills at Everett, Wash., employing 1,300 men, as well as at Weyerhaeuser camps at Vail and McDonald. Other locals have voted to resume logging and mill work at Lyman, Wash., and at the operations of four companies in the Olympic Peninsula. The four firms employ 2,000. The total of IWA strikers was put at 12,000 by the mediation board, 22,000 by Orton.

Possibility that full-speed work in 11 San Francisco Bay area shipyards might be resumed Monday after tomorrow's balloting was clouded by the report that only 739 of the original 1,131 AFL strikers are still available. The rest have found other jobs, Harry Hook, machinists' business agent, said.

The prolonged strike of the comparatively small group has hampered construction and ship

BUY U. S. BONDS

Carpenters Union Votes to Invest $1,000 In Program.

Mansfield members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, No. 735, (A. F. of L.) have voted to purchase $1,000 worth of defense savings bonds, it was announced today by Thomas F. Geddes, financial secretary and assistant business agent.

"Members of the union felt that the $1,000 purchase would serve a patriotic purpose and give notice of co-operation with the United States defense program," Geddes said. "There was not a dissenting vote."

The purchase will be completed by the union board of trustees within the near future, according to Geddes.

Leaders Favor Strong Action On Torpedoing

Hull Expected to Make Demand for Full Explanation of Robin Moor Incident From Nazis; 35 Still Missing as U. S. Prepares to Act Monday.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Roosevelt by executive order today froze all German and Italian assets in the United States. At the same time, assets "of all invaded or occupied countries not previously frozen," were likewise subjected to the sweeping order. These include Albania, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Danzig and Poland.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Widespread congressional support appeared to be developing today for whatever protests and demands the state department may dispatch to Germany as a result of the sinking of the American merchant ship Robin Moor by a submarine.

Senator Barkley, the Democratic leader, said he thought a protest note ought to be sent immediately and asserted he found it hard to believe the submarine commander sank the vessel "without some advice from higher authority."

A leading critic of administration foreign policy, Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), described the incident as "something I would denounce." He said, however, that he thought "at least we ought to await an explanation before we jump at conclusions—if there is an explanation."

Veteran Senator Glass (D., Va.) declared that if it was proved beyond question that Germany was responsible for the sinking "they ought to be made to pay for it."

In well-informed quarters it was predicted that Secretary Hull's first move would be to dispatch to Berlin a note of strong protest citing Germany's treaty pledges governing the sinking of merchant ships and also asking an immediate and forthright explanation of the Robin Moor incident.

In the same communication, it was said, Hull may demand indemnification for American lives and property lost as well as guarantees against future attacks on merchantmen flying the American flag.

Only 11 crewmen and passengers, picked up by the Brazilian vessel Ozorio, have been rescued. Thirty-five others, including three women and a child, are still missing 24 days after the Robin Moor was sent to the bottom of the South Atlantic by a torpedo and shells from the submarine's deck gun.

Whatever action the secretary of State and President Roosevelt decide upon will be taken after the scheduled arrival here Monday of Philip P. Williams, secretary of the American embassy in Rio De Janeiro. He is bringing the official report of William J. Linthicum, American consul at Pernam-

CALLS PATROL WAR-LIKE ACT

German Naval Expert Declares U. S. Navy Action Helps Nazis' Enemies.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—Writing in the weekly publication "Reich," Rear Admiral Luetzow, famous German naval expert, stated today that the United States naval patrol in the Atlantic ocean represents an "active, war-like act on behalf of Germany's enemies."

Publication of the article followed yesterday's German charge that the American steamer Robin Moor was carrying contraband and a renewed warning that German sea and air forces will continue to destroy war cargoes consigned to British ports, regardless of their origin.

Rear Admiral Luetzow's article dealt with the question of "what will happen when a

Hail Batters City, Streets Left With Coating of Ice

One of the worst hailstorms to hit Mansfield in several years battered the city for more than five minutes about 6 p. m. yesterday, coating streets with ice, while heavy storms struck other widely scattered parts of the state.

Some of the hailstones a half inch in diameter, remained on the ground after the storm, resembling snow. No damage to property was reported in the city, but farmers near the city limits said crops were hurt by the storm.

Last night's storm was confined to a narrow strip from east to west across the city. Other sections of the county, which were hit by hail two days ago, received none in last night's storm.

Heavy rainfall accompanied the storm, causing sewers to overflow and flood streets in low-lying sec-

SHIP EXPLODES

Five Injured In Tanker Blast At Philadelphia Port.

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Five men were injured early today when a series of explosions shattered the Venezuelan Oil Tanker Caroni, docked at the Gulf Refining company pier at Girard Point.

So violent were the explosions that thousands of South Philadelphia residents were awakened and buildings in the vicinity heavily shaken. Fire did not break out after the explosions.

The Caroni, a 3,164-ton ship, owned by the Mene Grande Oil company, of Venezuela, arrived in Philadelphia yesterday with a cargo of crude oil. Since her arrival three tank compartments have been unloaded and it was believed that the explosion was caused by vapors in these sections of the ship.

PLANE CRASHES

Two Injured When Craft Falls on Farm Near Portsmouth.

PORTSMOUTH —(U.P.)— George Bahner, 42, New Boston, and Carl Miller, 25, Portsmouth, were in serious condition today from injuries received when a plane piloted by Bahner crashed on a farm six miles north of Portsmouth. Miller was a passenger. The accident was blamed on engine trouble.

Hundreds Expected at Flag Day 'Open House' at Armory

Hundreds of Mansfield residents are expected to attend an "open house" program at the State Armory on Ashland road today from 1 to 5 p. m., some to celebrate Flag Day and others to enlist in Mansfield's newly-formed state guard unit.

Capt. Glen L. Bierly announced today that preparations had been made for the enlisting of the entire 57 men needed for the unit. Bierly said that more than 50 men had already contacted him to obtain applications for the guard but that the number of enlistments will not be limited.

American flags flew from the majority of Mansfield homes and business houses today although the threat of rain prevented some from displaying a flag.

Enlistees for the Mansfield guard unit, Campany F, will be entertained at a stag get-acquainted party today at 8 p. m. at the American Legion home. Final plans for the party were made last night at a meeting of the Citizens' committee at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce. The committee sponsors the farewell parties for selective service draftees.

Bierly reminded Mansfielders that all men between 18 and 65 are eligible to join the new unit if they pass physical examinations. He also stated that service with the state guard would not exempt men eligible for selective service.

A year ago, Milton Berle did a radio show in the east one evening, and the repeat broadcast—which goes to west coast stations—was cancelled because a political speech by a presidential candidate had run over into Milton's time. Goodman Ace, the comedian, wired Berle from Hollywood: "Heard your broadcast You were great—but why did they keep calling you Willkie?"

A few nights ago Milton was on again from New York. Again he arrived to do the repeat broadcast and found it had been cancelled because a speaker had run overtime.

He didn't know the identity of the speaker until he received a telegram from Jack Benny, who knew the other story. "Congratulations on your broadcast," Benny wired from Hollywood. "You were great—but why did they keep calling you Willkie?"

10 INJURED IN AUTO MISHAPS DURING STORMS

Skidding Cars Blamed For Most Mishaps; 6 Killed In Crashes Over State.

Driving conditions made difficult by repeated showers and a hailstorm were blamed today by Mansfield police and state highway patrolmen for a series of traffic accidents during the past 24 hours. Six persons were killed in accidents throughout the state.

Nine accidents were reported in the Mansfield vicinity, seven to state highway patrolmen and two to city police. Ten persons were injured, none seriously, as cars skidded on highways near Mansfield. Five of the mishaps were on U. S. route 42.

Raymond Betz, 20, of 347 Lexington avenue, suffered a broken left arm and cuts about the head and shoulders when a car driven by his brother, Edward, 22, and another operated by Robert Garber, 19, of Bellville, collided near the city limits on route 42. State highway patrolmen said the collision occurred when Garber attempted to pass a bus.

Two Mansfield youths were injured while riding bicycles in the city. Harold Stelzer, 16, of 165 Buckingham street, received minor cuts and bruises when he collided with a car owned by Burgess J. Patchen of Raemelton farm. The boy said that the car stopped suddenly on North Mulberry street and that he hit the rear bumper.

Burke E. Brewer, 320 Superior street, told police that his car had struck a bicycle operated by Arthur Roop, 14, of 304 Fifth avenue at Orange and Central street. The boy suffered a bruised right knee.

An auto driven by Lester B. Walker, 32, of Ontario, went out of control yesterday at 7 p. m., mounted the bank on the right side of the road and toppled over backward about nine miles west of Mansfield on state route 30-S. Walker and a pasenger, F. W. Durkin, also of Ontario, suffered lacerations of the scalp. Walker told highway patrolmen that his steering gear became jammed.

George R. Kanz, 19, Mansfield R. D. 4, received cuts on his hands and knees today at 1:30 a. m. when an auto driven by Fred C. Mowers, 35, Lucas R. D. 1, collided with the rear of his own about three miles north of the city on Route 42.

A few minutes later, a similar accident occurred at the same spot when a car driven by Eugene D. Hamilton, 33, Ravenna, collided with the rear of another operated by Philip Sims, 26, Medina.

Mrs. Tony Siclair, 22, Galion, a passenger in a taxicab, suffered a sprained neck when the cab, operated by Stephen Kopina, 25, of 122 West Fourth street, was struck in the rear by an auto driven by Ralph McKillip, 49, Springfield.

John Heber, 27, Sharon, Pa., escaped injury when his car skidded on Route 42-N, left the road and hit a telegraph pole. The car was demolished, according to patrolmen.

Three Crestline residents were injured Thursday night when the car in which they were riding on Route 30-N about two miles east of Crestline skidded and left the road. C. F. Dickinson, driver of the car was uninjured, but his wife was reported to have received a broken collar-bone.

Irene Scheiber was treated for shock and minor cuts and bruises while Mrs. William Roderick was admitted to Emergency hospital for observation.

GO TO BOYS' STATE TODAY

15 From Mansfield, Richland County Leave For Legion Program In Columbus.

Fifteen high school boys from five Mansfield and neighboring schools left for Columbus today to get "basic training in the ways of democracy," at the sixth annual Buckeye Boys' State sponsored by the Ohio department of the American Legion.

Eight hundred high school youths from throughout Ohio will participate in the 10-day event at the state fairgrounds where a mythical forty-ninth unit of the United States has been set up to give senior boys a sample of how the machinery of democracy works.

Before boarding a Columbus-bound bus here at noon the boys were guests of McVey post at luncheon at the American Legion home. Expenses of each local representative is paid by Mansfield organizations cooperating in the movement.

Selection of the students is based on scholarship and all-around record, according to W. E. Bradford, 118 Rowland avenue, Mansfield chairman of the event. Herman Bishop, assistant principal of Senior high school, assisted Bradford with the arrangements.

Mansfield Senior high school has nine representatives attending, Ralph Stanton, Bruce Graves, Fred B. Elder, jr., David Brunk, William Dietrichson, Paul Dietzel, Robert Winbigler, Parker Long and Jack Hager. St. Peter's high school is represented by Raymond Nixon and Byron Young.

Lucas, Madison and Union rural high schools sent the following delegates: Lucas, Dennis O'Connell; Madison, Howard Bletz and Richard Lehnhart, and Union rural, Richard Gramley.

TAKE HEED, BROTHER! SERVING SUZIES ARE ABOUT TO GANG UP

(By Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD — Do you bully, insult or try to date your waitress? Take heed, brother. The sisterhood of serving suzies is going to gang up on you, come June 23.

That's the date they've set to inaugurate Be Kind to Waitresses Week. Grace E. Smith of Toledo, Ohio, president of the National Restaurant association, and R. W. Dale of Seattle, president of the Washington state group, will ask the national convention to make it official. The convention opens in Seattle June 23.

The Smith-Dale combine, which must have lent a sympathetic ear to waitresses' wails, offers these tips on kindness:

Don't bark at your waitress. (It won't improve the service.)

Don't forget she didn't cook the food. (She only serves it.)

Don't use the waitress as a foil for your temper. (She can't snap back.) (Ed's Note: The heck she can't!)

Don't forget she can make a mistake. (Who can't?)

Don't try to date her.

The Smith-Dale combine left a loophole here. It appended "at least, while she's on duty." In fear of reprisals from the waitresses themselves?)

Don't forget she's a lady. (If you expect to be treated as a gentleman.)

Don't forget: As a customer you're always right . . . but that doesn't mean the waitress is always wrong.

ONE EDITION

Sandusky Newspapers Combine Issues.

SANDUSKY —(U.P.)— The Sandusky Newspapers, Inc., announced today that the morning edition of the Sandusky Register-Star News will be discontinued and combined with the afternoon edition effective Monday.

Dudley White, president of the company, said the combination would make "a bigger and better newspaper value for the community as a whole and for every reader than would otherwise be possible."

A Sunday morning editon will continue to be published.

The announcement said the morning edition had to be discontinued because of the high cost of publishing newspapers generally. The firm recently acquired a competing afternoon paper, the Daily News.

WIDOW, 86, DIES AT LOUDONVILLE

Mrs. Mary Hiner Succumbs After Illness of Four Years.

LOUDONVILLE — Mrs. Mary Hiner, 86, died at her farm home five miles south of here last night after an illness of four years. She was the widow of the late Martin Luther Hiner, who died 24 years ago.

Surviving are two sons, Charles of Perrysville, and Lloyd of Loudonville; two daughters, Mrs. Maude Dunn and Mrs. Mona Bloomgren, both of Loudonville; 22 grandchildren and 33 great grandchildren.

Services will be held in the Baptist church Sunday at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. T. W. Tate of the Nazarene church in charge. Burial will be in the Loudonville mausoleum.

EX-RESIDENT OF COUNTY DIES

Mrs. Estella Daugherty, Succumbs At Son's Home in Marion.

Mrs. Estella Harter Daugherty, 71, former Mansfield and Richland county resident, died Friday at the home of her son, Lawrence Daugherty in Marion after a lingering illness.

Born near Butler, Mar. 23, 1870 she was a member of the Christian church at Waterford.

Surviving are four sons, Luke R. of Mansfield; Roy, of Newark; Floyd, of Bernstadt, Ky., and Lawrence, with whom she made her home the past five years; three daughters, Bessie F. Springer, Corcoran, Calif., Mrs. Mabel Endsley, Howard, O., and Mrs. Marie Endsley, Marion, and 10 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Christian church in Waterford. Burial will be in North Fork cemetery.

Floods in the Park Avenue east subway will be a thing of the past if the plans of Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton and Sewer Superintendent Schuyler LeMunyon are successful. LeMunyon reported today that more than 25 truck loads of gravel and dirt had been taken out of the storm sewer at the subway. Crafton stated that this would eliminate the subway as a flood spot. The director said that the dirst was placed on streets during winter months to prevent skidding and it was washed into the sewers this spring.

A big crowd is expected at Wednesday night's double-header baseball game between the Mansfield Braves and Fostoria and in that crowd will be at least a dozen blind persons. They'll be there as guests of the Mansfield Lions club and it's for their benefit along with other blind persons in the county, that the club is sponsoring the games. How can they tell what's going on? Well, Paul T. Hoffman, Salvation Army adjutant who conducts the blind class, says "it's just another one of those things which us more fortunate people can't understand, but this sightless group is really enthused about going."

Two boys with an eye for business enterprise, unfortunately turned in the wrong direction, were picked up by Mansfield police early today on North Mulberry street with their arms filled with milk bottles. The boys had found the bottles on a railroad platform siding near the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing plant where some employes eat their lunch and had intended to sell the bottles to local dairies. Police found the boys were carrying nearly 20 bottles. They were reprimanded and returned to their homes.

1,000 ATTEND

Strawberry Festival at Johns Park Draws Big Crowd.

Approximately 1,000 persons attended the annual Johns park strawberry festival last night and saw Mary Jane Edwards crowned Queen of the festival by Mayor William J. Locke as the climax to the evening's program.

The festival was the most successful in the history of the event, according to Edward Wyllie, president of the public parks association. Dancing concessions and games followed the coronation exercises.

Doris Radovich, last year's queen, and Glenna Baumberger, were attendants to Miss Edwards. Four-year-old Jack Trisler served as crown-bearer and Jacqueline Wyllie was flower girl.

Although rain banned a scheduled ball game between the Mansfield and Ashland Provident teams preceding the festival, cake selling, and games were carried on outdoors in the park later in the evening.

Flags and flowers decorated the park building. Smart's accordion band furnished music for the dancers. Harry Bowman, president of the Johns park group was in charge of the evening's program.

FRIENDS CAUSE NEW SPLIT IN HOT CONTEST

New Dealers Battle to Get Favorites In Post; Mention LaGuardia.

WASHINGTON — The New Deal's furious undercover factional contest over President Roosevelt's choice of a new attorney general widened today as friends advanced the name of Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, for the cabinet post.

A drive by the Frankfurter-Harvard faction of the New Deal to secure the promotion of Solicitor General Francis Biddle, of Pensylvania already has been challenged by other administration groups. One faction is supporting Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York, and a third seeks the post for Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, of Connecticut.

Tossing of McNutt's name into this race is believed to lessen the chances of Biddle being promoted to the cabinet, although he has been a secret New Deal "favorite" for the post ever since the vacancy was first anticipated weeks ago. McNutt, long opposed by the Frankfurter crowd, which is new divided over the attorney generalship, has been given two choice appointments by Mr. Roosevelt, despite their opposition.

In 1937, the president named McNutt as Philippine high commissioner without consulting the "brain-trusters." In 1939, the president literally stunned the same group by recalling McNutt and appointing him federal security administrator. Since then, McNutt has remained high in the president's confidence.

It is recalled too that the president is under some political obligation to McNutt. In the Chicago convention last summer, it was McNutt who took the platform at the psychological moment, stilled a tumultuous demonstration for himself and took command of the bandwagon that led to the nomination of Henry A. Wallace for the vice presidency. Wallace, the president's personal choice, might have failed to get the nomination if McNutt had not intervened in his behalf.

One current rumor, which makes LaGuardia a possibility, is to the effect that the New Yorker turn-effect that the New Yorker turned down the secreatry of labor post some time ago. LaGuardia is reported to have rejected the offer on the ground that the post was a "mere clerkship." The rumor indicates that the president would like LaGuardia in his cabinet.

Time Turned Back For McGuffey In Oxford Ceremony

OXFORD —(INS)— "Backward, turn backward, O time in thy flight, make me a child again just for tonight."

That famous poem and many others will be brought to memory today and tomorrow at Miami university, where members of the Federated McGuffey societies of America are gathering to pay their annual tribute and to dedicat a memorial to William Holmes McGuffey and his beloved "readers by grades."

Near the home where McGuffey lived and wrote his readers while teaching at Miami university, a granite and bronze memorial has been erected through donations of many of the nation's most famous men who received inspiration from the philosophical messages expounded by McGuffey.

Speakers who will address the gathering include only those who went through the McGuffey books on their way to fame and fortune. This group will include Gov. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, and Branch Rickey, president of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball club.

Henry Ford, another lover of the McGuffey books, will be present but has declined a speaking invitation.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Economy in movie-making is a very simple thing.

When the producers quit talking about cutting expenses and get around to asking me, this innocent observer of many movies will volunteer his unpatented approach to the problem, to wit:

ROBBIN COONS

You start with the script. (And finish there too, wherein — to eliminate the suspense — is the whole secret).

First, you cut out the part about how Boy Meets Girl. You tell your writers to quit bothering about how, why, where and when B. met G. This saves endless wear and tear on your litt'ry wag-slaves' brains.

"Scriveners," you say, "I don't care a last year's hoot how B. met G. You bring 'em together in a bomb shelter (or a Paris ballroom, or a shanty in old Shantytown, or a cottage small by a waterfall, or wherever) and we gotta build a set Sets cost money. Also we gotta shoot it. And we got a lotta overhead. For what? So Boy can meet Girl before their very eyes. So we'll skip it. We'll start it where B. has met G. years before. We have a whole reel that way. . . .

"Now I see you've got complications in here. No money so they can't marry, too much money so they can't marry, or G.'s father says fix. I forgot to tell you but we're cutting out the part of G.'s father—C. Aubrey Smith is busy, and we can't get Eugene Pallette or Charles Coburn Parents are superfluous, besides, and the money gag is too familiar. People get married without money. Besides, if we let 'em get married we'll have to shoot a wedding, and weddings cost money. That's out. Tell you what, we'll start out where B. and G. have been married five years.

"Another thing—do you know this script has ten scenes in which somebody says to somebody else, "Won't you sit down? Cigarets? We'll just cut those. There's too much smoking already.

"Now this business of the Girl dressing That's old stuff—it was good when Clara Bow did it, but audiences are sophisticated now. Can't we assume, if we see her dressed, that she went through the motions of dressing? Hm-m-, wait a minute! Bebbe we better leave that in. . . . You never can tell what'll sell tickets. . . .

SEVEN GIVEN MERIT BADGES

Girl Scouts Honored at Tea Held at Liberty Park.

Badges of merit were presented seven members of girl scout troop 11 yesterday afternoon at a tea held at Liberty park.

Mrs. Gordon Watson, troop leader, and Miss Barbara Hartman, assistant, presented the badges to Alice Karsmizki, Elaine Watson, Marjorie Zeigle, Dorothy Zeigler, Eileen McBride, Margaret Burns and Doris Bury.

Miss Eleanor Bond, girl scout executive secretary, and the troop committee, Mrs. Delmar Scott, Mrs Leo Karsmizki and Mrs. Arthur Rice attended the meeting.

BURNED TO DEATH

ORRVILLE — (U.P.) — Miss Leah Zimmerly, 66, burned to death yesterday in a fire which destroyed a small shed adjoining her house. She apparently fainted in the shed when she entered it to investigate smoke.

ADMITS HELPING IN CAR THEFTS

Woman Tells Highway Patrol of Auto Stealing Ring.

PORTSMOUTH — (U.P.) — The state highway patrol reported today that a 25-year-old West Virginia woman had confessed to participation in an automobile theft ring which operated in Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky.

The woman, Lavina Myers, of St. Charles, W. Va., was arrested in Dayton and held there. She was said to have admitted helping James Morgan, 28, Middlesboro, Ky., steal cars at Manchester, O., and Russellville, O.

Morgan and his brother, John Ed Morgan, 24, Middlesboro, pleaded innocent yesterday in municipal court to a charge of shooting to kill as a result of a moving automobile gun battle last week with Highway Patrolman C. F Shaw near Portsmouth. The brotners were bound to the grand jury.

ACTRESS TO WED

Priscilla Lane, Publisher To Announce Engagement.

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— Actress Priscilla Lane's engagement to John Barry, publisher of a weekly newspaper at Victorville, Cal., is scheduled to be announced today.

It will be her second marriage, and Barry's first. Miss Lane eloped to Yuma, Ariz., several years ago with Oren Haglund, an assistant director. She left him after one day, and divorced him.

BRITISH BLAST RUHR, ATTACK INVASION COAST

Factories Shattered During Third Successive Night Of RAF Raiding.

fighting has occurred. The British said the Vichy soldiers were now holding positions across a road a few miles from Damascus.

An official Vichy military spokesman claimed that counter-attacking Vichy troops had repulsed Australian forces in the suburbs of Sidon, on the Lebanese coast.

British and Free French forces, virtually surrounding Damascus, paused as negotiations continued on the British suggestion for a peaceful surrender of the Syrian capital.

London relayed a German report from Vichy that the French fleet had left its base at Toulon, in unoccupied France. There were no further details but the announcement suggested the French warships may be planned to help defend Syria, attack British ships seizing French merchant ships, or perhaps collaborate with Germany in some other action.

A Vichy government spokesman, replying to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's castigation, asserted that the use of German airports in Syria and Lebanon conformed to terms of the Franco-German armistice. Vichy circles denied Germany, as Hull had charged, used Syrian bases for operations in Iraq.

An official British announcement indicated the possibility of German aerial intervention in Syria.

The diplomatic tussle between Washington and Berlin over the sinking of the American steamer Robin Moor marked chief Washington development.

In Syria, German aerial intervention in the hostilities was indicated by an official announcement that three German Junkers dive-bombers had been shot down yesterday afternoon. These planes were destroyed and several others were damaged, according to the communique, in air combats with Australian planes over the extreme eastern Mediterranean.

Say Collaboration Was Voluntary

VICHY—(U.P.)—French authorized circles replied to Secretary of State Cordell Hull today with the assertion that Franco-German collaboration is a policy which France has adopted of her own initiative, acting as the "sole judge of what her aspirations are in the realm of her liberties and traditions."

The French spokesman reiterated French denials of any grounds for British intervention in Syria.

It was said that the foreign office is studying Hull's statement and may issue an official reply later today.

The spokesman admitted that German planes had used Syria as a "stepping stone" and that the German-Italian armistice commission in Syria might have sent some seized French war materials into Iraq but said that the Axis powers only were acting within their rights under the armistice convention.

"It is completely untrue," said the spokesman. "that German forces ever used Syria as a base of operations against British troops in Iraq. It is perfectly true that certain Syrian airdromes were used by German planes as stepping stones but this was in absolute conformity with the terms of the armistice which gives the Axis powers the right to control such airdromes.

Report French Fleet Leaves Toulon Base

LONDON — (INS) — The French fleet was reported today to have left its base at Toulon in unoccupied France by Reuters, the British news agency, quoting an official German news agency dispatch from Vichy.

There were no immediate details as to the destination of the fleet or the direction it took in steaming from Toulon.

(Editor's Note. Three major possibilities were suggested by the Vichy report—one, that the fleet has gone to the defense of Syria, second, that it has steamed out to defend French merchant ships against British search and seizure, and third, that it is destined for some collaborative action with the German military machine.)

Asserts Troops Mass On Soviet Frontier

LONDON —(INS)— The London Daily Express stated in an Ankara dispatch today that 120 German divisions are concentrated along the Soviet frontier from the Baltic to the Black sea, despite the official Russian denial that Soviet-German tension exists.

According to "trustworthy information" in Ankara, the Express said, an estimated 140 Soviet divisions are massed along Russia's German and Romanian borders.

Claim Sinking of Bismarck Companion

LONDON —(AP)— The admiralty announced today that British warships have sunk the seventh raiding companion of the destroyed German battleship Bismarck.

In all, six auxiliary ships and one armed trawler of the Nazi raiding flotilla have been sunk since the Bismarck was cornered by British warships off Brest, France, May 27, and sent to the bottom three days after she sank the British battlecruiser Hood.

tions of the city. The temperature dropped sharply after the storm.

Cloudy and cooler weather with occasional light showers were forecast for tonight and Sunday.

Other sections of the state which reported damaging storms late yesterday were the Springfield and Middletown areas, Summit county, Logan, Madison and Champaign counties.

Communication lines were down at Urbana and London when heavy wind and hail struck the western Ohio cities. At Bellefontaine it was necessary to call off a pageant in the city's Golden Jubilee celebration because water stood a foot deep in the street where the program was to have been held.

The pounding of hail caused a grocery store roof to collapse at Cuyahoga Falls, damaging the stock of groceries.

DEMS HAVE 4 RACES, G. O. P. TO HAVE NONE

Orr, Bushnell Entered In Contest For Democratic Mayoralty Nomination.

sions, and James R. Anderson, who ran two years ago.

Joseph H. Foncannon, 634 Highland avenue, a Westinghouse employe, filed for council in the Second ward, becoming the first Democrat to seek a council post in that traditionally Republican ward in recent years. Councilman Charles N. Shultz is the Republican candidate again.

Except for Kyle's move to a different place on the ticket, all the present city councilmen are seeking re-election to the same posts.

In addition to the race for mayor, the Democratic contests are for councilman-at-large where four are seeking the three nominations, Fourth ward council where two filed, and Sixth ward council with two filed.

Harry M. Emmons, George L. Berg, and Lester D. Hunter, incumbent councilmen, are in the race again. The fourth candidate for a council-at-large post is Herman P. Speas, 440 Stewart Lane, a dairy company employe.

Councilman Jacob Kutschall will be opposed by Michael A. Mihalick for the Democratic nomination in the Fourth ward, while Councilman Arthur L. Croak will battle it out with Stanley L. Wilburn for the Democratic nomination in the Sixth ward. Richard H. Wynn, youthful bank employe, is the candidate in the Third ward.

The veteran Councilman Fred Miller is unopposed in the Fifth ward and will have no Republican opposition in the fall election. W. F. Feigenbaum, 341 Sturges avenue, a painter and decorator, filed on the Democratic ticket in the First ward to oppose Councilman Russell D. Porch, Republican, in the general election.

On the Republican ticket, William Owings, a newcomer in politics, is the candidate for council in the Fourth ward and Paul W. Bush, another newcomer, in the Sixth ward.

W. C. Mansfield, the G. O. P. candidate for council president two years ago, will be on the ticket again to oppose Howard G. Miller, Democrat, in the fall election.

Dean A. Eckert, former Republican city treasurer, filed for the same post. His opponent in the fall will be Earle K. Troll.

Candidates for city solicitor to succeed Marion D. Ward, jr., are Lydon H. Beam, Republican, who ran the last time, and Leslie K. Wagner, Democrat, unsuccessful candidate for Richland county representative last fall.

CALLS PATROL WAR-LIKE ACT

German Naval Expert Declares U. S. Navy Action Helps Nazis' Enemies.

German auxiliary cruiser meets American patrol ships."

He charged that American quarters are well aware that the American naval patrol is "incompatible" with the duties imposed upon a neutral nation by international law.

Admiral Luetzow deprecated the efficiency of the Atlantic patrol on grounds it lacked sufficient numbers of suitable ships. He claimed such a patrol requires even more warships than the convoy system.

"Of course," he wrote, "we expect an impediment to our warfare against British supplies, but boastful Anglo-American prophecies cannot shake our belief in victory.

"We recall our enemies also were mistaken in their expectation that convoys would be successful."

Leaving open the question whether German warships would fire on pursuing United States patrol vessels, he added:

"Let us drastically imagine the situation intended by the Americans: An American patrol vessel in the North Atlantic meets a German auxiliary cruiser with far superior artillery but inferior speed.

"The American ship follows the German vessel and radios a running report of the German ship's position, speed, course and fighting value until superior British forces have been concentrated.

"The German ship is unable to get rid of the irksome traitor because of its speed, but easily could silence him with a few salvoes.

"If it did that, it would violate American 'neutrality' and furnish the Roosevelt government with the desired cause to enter an 'honest' war to defend America and morality against an inhuman aggressor.

"Who would envy American commanders such insidious and cowardly orders?"

IRKED CONGRESS BACKS PROTESTS OVER SINKING

Hull Expected to Demand Full Explanation of Robin Moor Incident.

buco, Brazil, who obtained from the 11 survivors their dramatic accounts of the sinking.

On the basis of this information the United States yesterday branded Germany a treaty violator and claimed the evidence was sufficient to justify any measures necessary to enforce the doctrine of freedom of the seas recently reasserted by the president.

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, told reporters that both Germany and the United States were parties to the London naval agreement of 1930 which provided that proper precautions would be taken to insure the safety of passengers and crews on ships sunk by belligerents.

Emphatically Welles declared this government did not intend to enter into a controversy over whether the Robin Moor carried contraband cargo. The facts of the case, he said, were established beyond dispute.

Sinking Evidence To Be Flown to U. S.

RECIFE, Brazil —(INS)— Photographic and written records of the sinking of the American freighter Robin Moor were scheduled to be flown to Washington today by Philip E. Williams, third secretary of the United States embassy at Rio de Janeiro.

Eleven survivors of the sunken vessel who were picked up and brought into Recife by the Brazilian steamer Osorio told harrowing stories of the ordeal which followed the sinking of the vessel by a German U-boat. There were some few variations as to the exact circumstances of the sinking but all agreed that the vessel was torpedoed some 20 to 28 minutes after she was abandoned by her eight passengers and her crew.

Two surviving crew members, Engineers Karl Nilson, and Virgil Sanderlin, said the vessel was carrying 1,000 tons of steel and motor cars when she was sunk.

Antonio Santos, the vessel's Portuguese cook, quoted the German U-boat commander as saying to the Robin Moor's captain: "I feel sorry for you but your ship is carrying war material to the enemy."

(Editor's note: The state department thus far has taken no official cognizance of German charges that the Robin Moor carried war materials. However, the ship's manifest, made public in New York late yesterday, said the sole "munitions" aboard the vessel consisted of a case of one dozen .22 caliber rifles and 141 cases of shotgun shells.)

All survivors agreed that the action of the submarine was so swift that it allowed no time for consideration of the objections of the Robin Moor's captain.

Four lifeboats launched from the Robin Moor clung together for five days of relative calm weather. Then the seas began running high, heavy rains fell and the boats separated.

RUBBER COMPANY EXTENDS WEEK

Goodrich Announces 7-Day Work Week; 3,000 Affected.

AKRON — (U.P.) — A seven-day work week at the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, was announced today by Vice President T. G. Graham. About one-fourth of the 12,000 workers will be affected, he said.

Workers on the Sunday shift will receive time and one half pay, George Bass, president of the United Rubber Workers (CIO) local, said.

Firestone Tire & Rubber company, and Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, have been working occasional Sundays. They are expected to order regular seven-day weeks soon.

MOVING IN

Equipment Precedes Workers Into New Wright Plant.

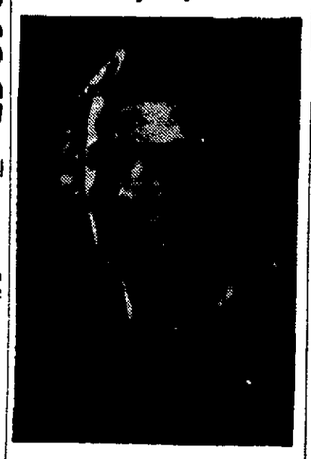
COLUMBUS—(INS)—Huge vans today began moving files and equipment into the new, $12,000,000 Curtiss-Wright pursuit plane factory which will begin partial production Monday.

The 1,400 employes who will report for work Monday at the sprawling, 104-acre plant will be increased as rapidly as possible to the 12,000 who next month will trundle the first fighting plane from the assembly line. At peak production, the plant is expected to turn out about 25 ships a day.

KILLED IN CRASH

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — Edward Tucker, 26, was killed last night when his automobile skidded on wet pavement and struck a telephone pole in suburban St. Bernard.

Sunday Speaker



Mrs. Charles Green of Manchester, England, above, came to the United States in May as a delegate of the churches in Britain to the International convention of Christian Churches at St. Louis. She will speak at the First Christian church Wednesday, June 18, at 7:30 p. m.

BARITONE WILL SING SUNDAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH

T. Loyd Hickman, Formerly With 'Green Pastures' to Appear Here.

T. Lloyd Hickman, baritone, formerly with the musical show, "Green Pastures," will present a concert at the Park avenue Baptist church Sunday at 7:45 p. m.

Hickman was not only one of the principal singers in "Green Pastures" but was also one of the understudies of "De Lawd," the leading role in the Negro drama. He comes to Mansfield with a rich background of training and experience abroad and in this country, having studied under Charles Pinault in France and Maurice La Forge of New York and others.

Hickman has traveled over 100,000 miles with "Green Pastures" and other productions and, as soloist in churches, colleges and other institutions over the country.

The public is invited to attend the program.

Rev. Albert L. Linder will use "Life with Father" as his sermon theme at the 10:30 morning service. The anthem, "On Life's Highway," will be sung by Eileen Turner, Mrs. Ruth Williams, George Lake and W. E. Wygant, jr.

Other meetings this week are: Star chapter, W. W. G., with Elaine Brumenshenkel, Lexington-Springmill road on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m; Amona class with Mrs. N. Prion, 135 Mendota street, Thursday at 7:30 p. m; and the regular bi-monthly social of the senior choir at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank, 138 West Third street.

There will be no more junior choir meetings until fall.

Joint Service At St. Paul's

Children's day exercises will be held Sunday at 9:30 a. m. at the St. Paul Lutheran church when services of the Sunday school and worship period will be combined.

Featuring the program will be an explanation and rendition of the morning service by several juniors and intermediates. Promotion exercises will be held for several juniors by Mrs. W. B. Linn, while children will be received for baptism by Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor. General arrangements have been made by Mrs. Glenn Miller, chairman, Mrs. M. R. Perkeybile, and Mrs. Roland Stahl.

Following Children's day activities, the entire congregation will go to the Mansfield cemetery where a memorial service will be held at the church lot, and the graves of the late Rev. and Mrs. Richard R. F. Boethelt, who served St. Paul's church from 1891 to 1896, will be decorated.

Beginning Monday at 9 a. m., a 10-day vacation Bible school will be opened for children of school age up to 14 years old. Sessions will come to a close Friday, June 27. Leaders will include Mrs. Glenn Miller, Mrs. Howard Hayward, Mrs. E. G. Pankow, Mrs. O. L. Seybold, Rev. Gilbert, and several others. Bible stories, handwork, dramatics, motion pictures and recreational activities will feature the school.

Thursday Nighters will hold an outing Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at Middle park with Miss Lilliam Damlos, Henry Howard and Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Hipp forming the committee.

Holds Children's Day Exercises

Annual Children's day exercises will feature the First Congregational church service tomorrow at 10 a. m. The program, consisting of songs and recitations by the children of the younger church school departments, will center around a playlet entitled, "We Would See Jesus."

The Sacrament of baptism of children will be celebrated.

Children receiving Bibles from the church are: Gracia Ann Derr, Charles Albert Eichinger, Jane Lois Emerson, Harry LeRoy Frick, Russell Martin Hall jr., James Jarrett Rusk, and Robert Alan Young.

'God, Preserver of Man,' Sermon Topic

"God the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Sunday.

The golden text is: "The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms" (Deuteronomy 33:27.)

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world" (James 1:27).

'Family Religion' Topic of Sermon

Rev. Edward G. Corwin will speak to the First Methodist church congregation on "Family Religion" at the Sunday morning worship at 10:30 a. m. Dimon Herring will be the guest soloist.

Evelyn Corwin will follow the plan of observing Father's day in all the services when she addresses the Sunday school at 9:15 a. m.

Other weekly meetings are: the youth Bible group starting to study Isaiah on Tuesday at 7 p. m.; the Epworth league members under the leadership of Maxine Hartman on Sunday at 6:30 p. m.; circle No. 1 at the home of Mrs. Charles McKinley, 33 Sherman avenue; circle No. 2 at the summer cottage of Mrs. L. D. Bower, Park avenue west road; circle No. 3 at the home of Mrs. H. L. Princehorn, 163 Ludwig avenue.

Program Set For Children's Day

St. Luke's Lutheran church will hold its annual Children's day program at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

CONFER HONORS AT EPISCOPAL CHURCH SUNDAY

Commencement Service to Be Held In Recognition of Attendance, Class Work.

Members of Grace Episcopal church school will participate in their annual commencement service at 10:45 a. m. in the church Sunday.

Certificates of accomplishment will be awarded those pupils who have been faithful in attendance and for class participation.

A. Lawrence Price, lay-superintendent, will conduct the service assisted by David M. Talbot, Darrel Nichols, jr., and Paul Pfahler. Members of the school will bring flowers to decorate the floral Cross and Rev. Glenn Lewis, rector and superintendent, will give a brief address. The boys choir, under the direction of Mrs. Dean Eckert, will sing "Venite" by Steggall, "Psalm 150" by Humphries and 'If Ye Then Be Risen With Christ" by Wadely. Holy Communion will be celebrated in the chapel at 8 a. m.

This commencement service will mark the close of the regular session of the church school. The summer session will begin Sunday, June 22, with church school pupils joining in the regular church service at 10:45 a. m. until the sermon and then retiring to the undercroft for project classes.

Thursday afternoon the council of Grace Episcopal church women will hold their last meeting until fall at the home of Miss Josephine Doolittle beginning at 2 p. m. followed by a tea. Mrs. Glenn Lewis and Mrs. Lee R. Boyd are assisting hostesses.

Choir rehearsals will be Thursday morning at 9 and Saturday evening at 7.

Rev. Lewis will lead a delegation from Grace church to the Gambier summer conference on Monday for a 12-day period. Others attending include Miss Frances Brinkerhoff, Richard W Talbot, Donald Spreckler, Jacqueline Nichols

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JUNE 14, 1941.

Drive carefully tomorrow—set a good example for those who are inclined to take chances.

One of the saddest things about the Nazi assault on civilization is the plight in which it leaves civilized Germans.

Finland is getting itself so nicely straightened out that Stalin may soon feel like going in again and smashing things up.

A Test of Our Policy

PROBABLY everyone has known that something like the Robin Moor sinking would come along sooner or later.

On the basis of evidence at hand, several things seem indisputable. The ship was sunk by a German submarine, in South Atlantic waters, which are not in the zone of war. The passengers and crew members were left adrift in lifeboats, which is a violation of an international agreement, to which Germany is a signatory, to provide for the safety and comfort of survivors before torpedoing a vessel.

Our state department is planning a vigorous protest—as well it should. But already indications from Nazi Germany are that any protest will receive scant consideration.

That puts the next move up to us.

If we undertake to maintain our belief that the seas are free—at the least, the seas not in actual zones of warfare—we shall have to implement our belief with something more than words.

The attitude of the Germans seems to indicate that we shall have no other choice—either we arm our ships for their own protection, or we extend our naval patrol, with orders to take any steps that seem necessary for protection of Americans and American property.

To do less would be to fail to maintain our own self-respect.

How much more we should do will call for calm, sober judgment.

Patriotic Farmers

THREE great farmer organizations—the American Farm Bureau federation, the National Grange and the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives—have taken a strongly patriotic stand. Their representatives have issued a statement on public policy which shows understanding of the world situation and recognition of the important role farmers may play in it.

First, the statement calls for national unity and willingness on the part of all citizens to toil and sacrifice. They urge next that all groups do the best possible production job they can, whether in industry or agriculture. National safety, they believe, requires that, in labor disputes, operations continue while differences are being composed. They want no coercive or disrupting measures on the part of industry, labor or agriculture. It is no time to seek selfish advantage.

In order to prevent dangerous inflation and excessive debt they ask for a broader tax base to pay for defense from current income. Finally, they say, "all unwarranted profits of industry, labor and agriculture should be recaptured by appropriate taxation."

The farmers, like many other citizens, would like to see as much as possible of their suggested program accomplished by patriotic voluntary action. But they want it accomplished, even if it has to be an official job.

Defense Costs Next Door

SOME Americans seem to feel rather patronizing about Canada's war effort, but they needn't. National effort and cost should be reckoned in terms of relative resources and ability to pay. By this standard the Canadians have been for some time pouring out money and effort more lavishly than we are, and will probably continue doing so.

A Canadian authority informs Americans that his countrymen are now paying 44 per cent of their national income for war purposes. And nobody is exempt. There is a graduated defense tax which is deducted from all wages and salaries. Nothing like this has yet been proposed here. Our current war expenditure is said to be about 10 per cent of income.

If our people were paying as much as our Canadian neighbors, in proportion to income and resources, we would be paying more than $40,000,000,000 a year for national defense. We'll have a long way to go, in defensive sacrifice, to match that. And the English are said to be paying more than half their incomes in war taxes.

Those Nazis may yet be lost in the Cretan labyrinth and devoured by the Minotaur.

As for wartime prices, naturally the cost of killing raises the cost of living.

GASLESS SUNDAYS

Full Passenger Car Ban Seen

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Pessimists in the automobile industry predict that another six months will see the end of production of passenger cars in this country for the "duration." Incidentally representatives of the industry in Washington are particularly bitter about the proposed restrictions on the manufacture of trucks. They are perfectly willing to accept a total blackout so far as passenger vehicles are concerned, as a national defense necessity, but they insist that the biggest problem confronting the country, and from a national defense standpoint only, is going to be transportation. Hence, they contend, trucks will prove to be of extreme importance.

Official stupidity, they contend, may limit truck production for a while, but when the national preparedness drive really gets hot there will be clamor from the government for increased truck production.

In World war No. 1 transportation soon became one of the major problems. The government eventually took over the railroads and operated them all from Washington. In those days the highways were pretty poor compared with now, and the heavy movement over them, coupled with a terrific winter in 1917-1918, left them anything but a motorist's paradise.

We have not reached the stage yet of a severe scarcity of manpower, but everyone who has been studying the problem knows it is coming. Nothing comparable to the last war, in which we had four million men under arms, two million of whom got to France, in addition to the huge war production. But in this war it takes more than twice as many men working behind the lines as it did in the last, due to the increase in mechanization and other factors.

All of which brings to the fore the importance of having the railroads efficiently operated. It is obvious to any person casually watching a freight train, especially a through freight, that goods can be transported by rail at a minimum of human effort as compared with even the biggest trucks. With present locomotive trains of 100 freight cars are not even unusual, they are commonplace. On certain lines where the grades are easy the freight trains can be much longer. Also they can operate, the through trains at least, at schedules equal to those of fast passenger trains. They run at much higher speeds than they did in World war No. 1.

The chief difficulty in World war No. 1 was not due to the slower speed of freight trains and lack of equipment such as the railroads have now. It was due almost entirely to mismanagement caused by government interference by priority orders.

Priority orders are not only a sound expedient, but absolutely vital to an intelligent handling of the transportation problem, but it is essential that they should be intelligent. What happened in World war No. 1 was that every freight yard in the country was transformed into storage warehouses, with the loaded freight cars which packed and jammed them substituting for the orthodox warehouse structures.

This use of the freight yards was particularly bad right around the piers at embarkation ports, and soon resulted in a shortage of freight cars. It is extremely doubtful if there was ever, even in the worst period of this transportation mess, a REAL shortage of freight cars. But there was certainly a shortage of cars available for hauling freight. Most of them had been converted into storage bins, in which capacity they not only crippled the railroads by being unavailable for railroad use, but complicated loading of ships by blocking all avenues of approach to the piers.

Let's Look Around

The Reno You Never Hear About

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

RENO, Nevada—Let's try, for a moment, to forget that we know anything about Reno, and to approach it as we would any other city along our route of travel.

Reno's national publicity has been so concentrated along one or two particular lines that it is rather difficult to disattach it from preconceived notions and look at it in a fair and unbiased way—which accurate reporting requires.

First of all, let it be understood, Reno is the largest city in Nevada, with a population of 21,317—or slightly more than one-half the size of Mansfield.

The residents of Reno are, in the main, healthy, happy, normal people engaged in customary businesses, professions and trades, and apparently well pleased with their community and their state.

The University of Nevada is located here, there are six public grade schools, two junior high schools, one senior high school, a parochial school and three business colleges.

A BOOKLET issued by Reno's active chamber of commerce, says: "Reno, as the educational center of the state, evidences a wonderful interest in the cultural side of life"—demonstrated by the fact that the Nevada Community Concert association has a membership above 1,200 and sponsors a series of concerts by nationally known artists each season.

Reno industries include manufacture of a long list of products and a compact and attractive business district reflects a prosperous citizenship and a high degree of civic pride.

Surprisingly, perhaps—to those whose impression of Reno is based on date-line news items—this might also be known as "a city of churches," with twenty denominations listed and all apparently well supported.

The customary service clubs are found in Reno—Kiwanis, Rotary, Exchange, Lions, Optimist, and a "20-30" club of young men—each being engaged in some specific civic activity, as is also the very lively Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Keep in mind, too, that Reno adequately supports a Y. M. C. A., a Y. W. C. A., and makes liberal contribution to the work of the Red Cross.

RENO'S six parks cover a total area of 68 acres, with playgrounds, tennis courts, swimming pools, a baseball park and a zoo—and the golf conversation indulged in by a bunch of addicts is much like that heard in Mansfield.

Great preparations are now being made for Reno's annual rodeo, to be held July 4—regarded as among the best exhibitions of this sort to be seen anywhere in the west, with attendance attracted from all over the country.

Located on U. S. transcontinental highway No. 40, Reno makes an attractive stopping place for much of the east-west tourist business, and traffic policing is well handled by a special traffic squad of six men, which is augmented for special occasions.

An interesting phase of the city's policing is that, with a population of 21,000 there are 37 men in the police department—or one to about 700 of population.

AS SEEN in daylight, and as viewed along lines considered essential to the normal functioning of a prosperous small city, Reno meets the test of close scrutiny.

But Reno can also be seen in another way—which must be deferred until tomorrow.

Listen World!

Forget About It!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

EVER make a hideous mess of things . . . lose your head and mess up not only your own life but many an innocent bystander's? Then eat your heart out because you couldn't go back and make everything right again? If you're a normal human you probably have . . . and will understand this thirty-year-old woman's tragedy.

Back when the world was young, she made a big mistake. Yes, it's a true story, but I'm not going to give you any of the vital statistics. Suffice it to say she wrecked things, plenty. And now she's facing the pay-off. The man who started it has since gone out of her life . . . back to his wife and the youngsters, who will be punished all their lives for something in which they had no hand.

The woman herself—she's yet hardly more than a girl—is left to face the broken pieces. She's brave and intelligent; she can take her own punishment in her stride. And, believe me, she's being plenty punished by outraged parents and sneering friends. But there's one thing she can't take, yet. And that's the realization that she can't put the broken pieces together again. That's the thing that is breaking her heart.

She was only a kid when it happened, with no realization of moral values. She didn't know that regret was something that would go on and on . . . long after the start of it happened. If only she could go to that sad young wife and tell her how sorry she is . . . and see her smile again. If only she could make up to those poor babies for the carefree joy she has stolen from their lives. But she can't. And she's finding it out with a gnawing agony that is breaking all her courage and self respect. So she's sent me the wail that so many have sent:

"Must things always stand against us, Elsie . . . Isn't there any way to undo the past?"

Any way to undo the past? I doubt if there is, my dear. And, if you're wise, you won't try to do it . . . for living in the past is as foolish as living in the future, and just as wasteful. It's as criminal to spend our time regretting the things we've done as it was to do them in the first place.

The only rule we must observe, if we want to be healthy-minded, is this "go on growing! Try not to make mistakes. But if you do make them, use them as soil to grow in! Use everything to grow in . . . all the foolish mistakes . . . all the broken dreams. Never, never let yourself sink down into chronic regret. Of all forms of suicide that is the lowest and most futile.

For regret, although few of us realize it, is one of the trickiest traps that ever ensnared the human spirit. It's tricky because we have been taught that it is beautiful and noble. We do not see that its supposed "nobility" is a perfect and pernicious camouflage for self-indulgence. It's so thrilling for a Chronic Regretter to dramatize himself or herself into a hero or heroine. It's so much easier to spend hours snivelling over our errors than it is to give ourselves a swift kick and get going.

There's just one thing to do if you've made a Big Blunder: Be sorry . . . admit what a fool you've been . . . make what amends you can . . . THEN FORGET IT AND GET GOING. Only egotists, cowards and loafers hang around the ashes of an old sin. If you really want to "pay for what you've done," then give the only pay that counts, the only pay life wants: new growth, strength and joy to replace that you wrecked.

As for those things which haunt you, the things you say you can't erase; I suspect the best thing we can do is—leave them to God. Each life is responsible for itself to a very large degree. We aren't 100 per cent our brother's keepers, after all. If it's up to us not to hurt him (and it is), it is also up to him not to let himself be hurt in this chancey world. There are always two sides to any story—often a dozen—and I do know this, if anyone honestly wants to be healed from a deep heart hurt, it can and will happen. The Father who gave us life to begin with will renew it in our bruised spirits, and give us all, the Folls and the Fooled, another break.

How do I know? You'd be surprised!

Summary of Week's Happenings

Use of Troops to Break Plane Plant Strike Week's Highlight

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE patience of the president has been taxed and broken" by the strike at North American Aviation Corporation in Inglewood, Calif., an administration official confided to newsmen.

The local North American unit of the United Automobile Workers had demanded a union shop, a general wage increase of 10 cents an hour and an increase of minimum rates from 50 to 75 cents. The plant had orders for $200,000,000 worth of military planes.

Twice the walkout was postponed at the request of the Defense Mediation Board. Then, as the board tried to arrange some temporary working agreement, the strike was called by Bill Goodman, 35, chairman of the local union. He charged the board was "stalling" the workers.

After two days, FDR warned that if the strikers weren't back to work by Monday the government would take over the plant.

Chunky Dick Frankensteen, head of the CIO-UAW's aviation division, rushed to Inglewood by plane, called the strike a "wildcat." He urged workers to cooperate with the president and said he spoke for CIO President Phil Murray.

Strikers met in a bean patch near the plant, booed Frankensteen down when he tried to address them.

Later Frankensteen declared that although the great majority of workers were patriotic Americans "the vicious underhanded maneuvering of the Communist party is apparent." He ordered the suspension of the negotiating committee and five international organizers.

Labor insiders in Washington saw the clash as the start of a showdown between Murray and the CIO's left-wing leaders.

In Went The Army.

The president fulfilled his threat; 2,600 troops marched to the plant on Monday with little commotion. Attorney General Jackson backed up FDR's action by opining: "The situation at the North American plant more nearly resembles an insurrection than a labor strike."

The army's Lieut. Col. Charles Branshaw, supervisor of the Western office of the Army Air corps procurement division, was placed in charge of the plant. FDR said the plant would be turned back to its private owners as soon as possible.

When soldiers marched into the plant, Americans watched for developments that would answer these two big questions in their minds:

1. Would the strikers—either through persuasion or coercion—return to their jobs?

Branshaw promptly announced: "Employes desiring to return to their jobs will be given all necessary protection to insure free and safe entrance to and exit from the factory. Employes . . . will not be coerced or intimidated to return."

He also gave notice that anyone interfering with resumption of operations would be arrested.

The Selective Service directed the reclassification of draft registrants "who have ceased to perform the jobs for which they were deferred" and thus were "impeding the national defense program." Draft officials at Inglewood estimated that there were about 2,000 aircraft employes on their deferred list.

Within two days the strike had collapsed completely.

2. What would happen to the union, and its demands for wage increases?

FDR told workers that "negotiations will be conducted through the process of collective bargaining to reach a settlement fair and reasonable to the worker and to the company."

The regular scale of pay would be paid the first week, he said, with the understanding that if mediation efforts result in boosting the wage scale, the increase will be retroactive to May 1.

Frankensteen said he had been notified by federal officials that all negotiations "will be conducted with myself and the officially recognized committee" replacing local officers.

Later, three local union officials who helped call the strike reported that they were suspended from the night shift on orders from Col. Branshaw. Frankensteen answered that there had been no abuse "of individual rights" by the army.

After the president conferred with the head of the AFL International Machinists Union, there were fresh signs that the San Francisco shipyard tie-up would be eased.

The CIO die casters struck at the vast Aluminum company of America plants at Cleveland; but soon went back to work.

Southern soft coal mine operators bowed to the mediation board's recommendation that they boost daily wages 40 cents to a $7 base and thus wipe out the North-South differential in CIO contracts.

Congressmen Study Curbs.

Tenseness caused by the strikes brought a flurry of new demands for restrictive legislation.

The senate prepared to act on an amendment to the Selective Service Act to allow the government to take over any plant if the Secretary of War or Navy finds that an "existing or threatening failure" of its production impedes defense. Such a measure would reaffirm the president's authority.

Senator Vandenberg asked whether the measure might help "those who want to precipitate nationalization of industry."

Meanwhile the House dispatched to the senate measures to:

1. Forbid payment of any of the money of the huge $10,000,000,000 army bill to any person or company failing for a period of 10 days to abide by recommendations of the mediation board;

2. Forbid payment of any of the money to any persons who maintain a picket line after a strike has been certified as injurious to defense.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Margo didn't receive much billing the first time she danced at the Waldorf, but she is receiving plenty now.

Margo is the dancer whose real name is Marguerita Teresa Guadelupe Castilla Bolado, and who delighted Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur with her dancing so much that they took her out to Long Island and put her in a picture, "Crime Without Passion"—and that was how the world first heard about her.

Just at that moment she was handed the leading feminine role with Burgess Meredith in a play that was to win the Pulitzer prize—"Winterset." It was risky to place so important a role in the hands of an unknown, but she came through with it and even was awarded the nod for the best performance of that year by a young actress. . . . After this success it was a foregone conclusion that she also would be cast with Meredith in the film by the same name.

But Margo, at heart, was a dancer. And she fell in love. She married Francis Lederer, whom the late Heywood Broun called the nearest thing to a real matinee idol Broadway had had in a generation.

Then she went to Mexico to study folklore and dancing, and, last summer, at the invitation of Mexico, she presented the Spanish ballet at the National theater.

By this time Margo was out of love, and she paused in Reno long enough to obtain a divorce and then returned to her dancing. Today, at 22, she is back at the Waldorf—but this time as a star. The attention she is receiving is practically overwhelming.

GRACE MOORE tells this story about the two drunks who were motoring along a highway.

1st drunk: "We must be getting close to the city."

2nd drunk: "What makes you think that?"

Jean Muir, who went to Hollywood from Broadway and became a star and then came back to Broadway, has a theater of her own now—the country theater at Suffern, New York—and will manage it herself this summer. Her first production will be "The Male Animal" with Jose Ferrer and Uta Hagen. Opening date: June 30th.

John Rosenbrook of Young & Rubicam, is an enthusiastic student of the War Between the States—so much so that his young son has been named Jeb, after the Confederate cavalry chief.

Of all the fair damsels he has seen, Peter Fairchild thinks Judy Garland is the fairest. Therefore, he will paint her portrait in one of the costumes worn by Vivien Leigh in GWTW. "She has," cried the portrait painter, "not only fresh youthfulness, but old-fashioned charm." Which is praise indeed.

Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British Middle East commander.

"The great hour in our history has sounded," others, signed by Free French General Georges Catroux, proclaimed. "France declares you independent."

The British-Free French invasion from the south and east of Syria was on.

This time the Allies avoided the mistake they made last September, when they went by sea to Dakar expecting to be received with open arms—only to be greeted with shot and shell.

Resistance Half-Hearted.

But as their attack unfolded—with galloping cavalry out in front in several sectors and RAF planes overhead—the British reported there was little need for fear of great opposition in much of the land.

Some French officers surrendered after fighting briefly "to clear our honor." Captured native troops said "we had to do what our officers told us." A company of Druse lancers refused to surrender but offered to join the British if permitted to keep their arms. A deal was made.

French headquarters said its troops were putting up "magnificent resistance" to British who made a landing on the Lebanon coast north of the Litani river. It added that "brilliant action of two of our destroyers" seriously damaged two British warships north of Tyre.

There seemed to be few German forces in Syria, although the Free French news agency said the high commissioner had SOS'd Vichy for more troops—"if necessary German troops."

Abroad

Japan's Awkward Moment.

The lush Dutch East Indies have rubber, oil and tin aplenty: Japan wants more of all three.

The Dutch turned down Japan's requests because (1) British and U. S. needs take precedence, (2) they don't want to furnish Japan enough to make transshipment to Germany possible.

Last week-end the Japanese negotiator became more threatening. He said no Dutch reply save one of substantial capitulation would be acceptable.

The Dutch answer came back. They had scarcely budged.

Instead of huffing off from Batavia to Tokyo the negotiator said merely that the answer was "not entirely satisfactory." Opinion in Tokyo was hot then cold on what to do next. Finally, the negotiator went back into conference on his "own responsibility," as he put it. In Tokyo, however, spokesmen talked as if he had been told to come home.

On the sidelines: (1) America's Secretary Hull pointed out America's interest in the negotiations, and (2) a German official said "Germany recognizes Japan's interest in the Dutch East Indies."

Down But Not Groveling.

In an unusually frank order, the Nazi commandant of the Athens area proclaimed a 10 p. m. curfew and gave these reasons:

"On the night of May 30-31 the German military flag flying atop the Acropolis has been stolen . . .

"The way the people of Athens behave in general toward German armed forces is unfriendly.

"Almost every commodity is sold in Athens to German soldiers at prices considerably higher than those at which they are sold to Greeks."

LORRAINE MARY ROSS WEDS JAMES TESENIAR AT GALION

GALION—One of the season's prettiest home weddings took place at 3 p. m. today when Lorraine Mary Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester T. Ross, and James D. Teseniar of Galion, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Teseniar of Fort Pitt City, North Carolina, repeated vows before the fireplace in the spacious living room of the new home of the bride's parents, at 325 Erie street.

The day also marked the 24th wedding anniversary of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ross of Pembroke, N. Y., who were present for the occasion.

For the setting, a low floral piece of white Canterbury bells was placed on the mantel, and on the floor beneath it was a tall basket of white Canterbury bells and white gladiolas, flanked on each side with candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony, Dale Sanderlin was at the piano for several nuptial numbers, and to accompany the bride's sister, Dorothy, who sang two selections. Lohengrin's wedding march was played for the processional, and the Mendelssohn march followed the service.

The bride descended the stairs of the home to meet her father who gave her in marriage. The bridal gown was fashioned of white organza, with lace trimming on the fitted bodice, and long full skirt, puffed short sleeves and sweetheart neckline. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses, snapdragons and feverfew. The finger-tip veil of tulle hung from a tiarra of orange blossoms.

Dorothy Ross served as her sister's bridesmaid, and another sister, Barbara, was junior bridesmaid. Pink and blue brocaded organza floor-length gowns were worn, respectively, by the bridesmaids. They carried colonial bouquets.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ross wore a green and white print with chiffon redingote. White and yellow roses were used in her corsage.

Rev. H. K. Freeman, pastor of First Baptist church, read the ceremony in the presence of immediate families and a few close friends.

Best man was John D. Williams of Detroit, a high school classmate of the bridegroom.

For the present, the newlyweds will make their home with the bride's parents.

Graduating from Galion high school, the bride later attended the Mansfield Business Training school. Her husband is employed as a printer at the Wilson Printing company. He was graduated from the Junior Order High school, Tiffin.

Aviation Epic.

The step-by-step method by which three young men from different social levels become army fliers is depicted in "I Wanted Wings," aviation epic at the Ohio. Filmed with the co-operation of the United States Army Air corps the picture shows hundreds of young airmen spreading their wings as they prepare for national defense. Ray Milland, William Holden and Wayne Morris comprise the trio that is guided by Brian Donlevy, flying instructor, against every danger but Veronica Lake in the role of a ruthless night club singer. Constance Moore is in the cast.

Different Characterization.

In the role of a woman disfigured from childhood Joan Crawford brings to the Madison screen an entirely different characterization than has previously been her lot. Venting hate upon the world for her disfigurement she carries out the intentions of a madman until a plastic surgeon restores her to a beauty that penetrates her better nature and effects her rejuvenation. Conrad Veidt in the role of the madman and Melvin Douglas as the surgeon are in the supporting cast. The Joan Blondell-Dick Powell opus, "Model Wife," is the second attraction.

Color Feature.

The Technicolor production "Virginia," with Madelaine Carroll and Fred MacMurray opens Sunday at the Ritz. Gene Autry's feature "Singing Hills," a first run picture, is the co-attraction.

Western Action.

Blazing guns and thundering hoofs pack action into "The Return of Daniel Boone," featuring Bill Elliot at the Majestic. Told against a background of outlaws and avenging ranchers the story deals with the attempt of politicians to oust the homesteaders. Order is restored by the grandson of Daniel Boone who rides through the section before going on to other victories. Betty Miles and Dub Taylor are also featured. "Double Date," the co-attraction, has Edmund Lowe and Una Merkel.

Crop-Dusters.

"Give Us Wings," featuring the "Dead End Kids," and dealing with aerial crop dusters, is the attraction at the Park. Billy Halop and Bobby Jordon are featured as the "grease monkeys" who fly the antiquated planes of an unscrupulous owner. Zane Grey's "Border Legion" is the second picture. Beginning Sunday, "Sis Hopkins," with Judy Canova and Bob Crosby, will be shown, plus "Pride of the Bowery."

VISIT PEONY GARDENS AND ATTEND MEETING

Linnaeus Garden Club Members Enjoy Trip to Gardens Near Huron and Luncheon-Program Meeting at Smaltz Cottage, Rye Beach.

A TRIP to the peony gardens near Huron and a picnic dinner at the Smaltz cottage at Rye Beach were the interesting diversions for members of the Linnaeus Garden club Friday. Nine members and five guests, Mrs. Lionel Smaltz and daughters, Nancy and Sally, of Mansfield, Mrs. David Martin of Ashland and Miss Marilyn Michaels of Alabama, were present.

When the group stopped at the peony gardens they also had the opportunity to visit other gardens in the vicinity which were spectacular with bloom and riotous color. At noon a fish dinner was served by Mrs. C. K. Smaltz at one long table decorated with an unusual centerpiece. Paul Scarlet roses and yellow lilies were fashioned in the shape of a boat and at each place were miniature boat favors.

During the afternoon the general discussion revolved around the flower "Calochortus." Roll call was answered on "An Old Fashioned Flower." The members will meet for an all day session on June 27 at the home of Mrs. Carl Spangler, Park avenue west road. The meeting will convene at 10 a m

Band Mothers Plan Gathering

When members of the Senior High Band Mothers club met Friday they made their final arrangements for the family picnic to be held tomorrow at South park. The event will honor the fathers and dinner will be served at 6 p m. preceded by an afternoon of games and contests. Yesterday's session was the final meeting of the club until fall.

Mrs. Fred Ohler, 592 Heineman boulevard, entertained the 16 members at her home, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Lotz and Mrs. Clarence Strohmenger. Routine business was discussed and at the close of the meeting refreshments were served buffet style with spring flowers decorating the table. When meetings are resumed, Mrs Charles Wilcox, 41 Western avenue, will entertain on Sept. 12 at her home.

Helping Hand Bible Class Has Program Meet

Mrs. Mary Diemer, 872 Dickson Parkway, opened her home to members of the Helping Hand Bible class of the First Presbyterian church Friday with 21 members and two guests in attendance. Guests were Mrs. Frank Hauserman, who spoke on the working schedule at the Johnny Appleseed Junior high school cafeteria, and Mrs. J. T. Stough of Butler, Pa.

The business session was in charge of the president, Mrs Emma Norton and Mrs Theodore Frank led the devotions. "Your Flag and Mine" was the subject of the interesting paper given by Mrs. Besse Albright. The remainder of the meeting was spent in sewing for the hospital. At the close of the session refreshments were served by Mrs. Diemer and her associates, Mrs E D Flinn, Mrs. Frank Mitchell and Mrs Charles Remy. Roses were used to decorate the serving table and Mrs. Stough poured.

Plans were made to hold a picnic dinner at noon on July 11 at North Lake park. Mrs Norton, Mrs. Jacob Kramer and Mrs Hamilton Patton will be in charge of arrangements

Miss Doolittle And Mr. Franks Will Wed June 29

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Mary Jane Doolittle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Doolittle, Cline avenue, to Lawrence Franks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Franks, Lucas, was made Friday evening at a meeting of the Merry Mixers club. The ceremony will be performed June 29 at 12:30 p. m. at the home of Rev. G. E. Swoyer.

Mrs. Robert Bigony, Mrs. Charles Addlesberg, and Mrs. Wayne McFarland entertained the club Friday evening with a covered-dish dinner. During the evening contests were played and prizes won by Mrs Michael Reif and Miss Helen Lanzen. Luncheon was served the guests at a long table decorated with spring flowers. The announcement was made by small scrolls found in corsages. The hostess presented the bride-elect with an electrical gift. Miss Doolittle will be feted with a party June 24 at the home of Miss Mariam Oswalt, R. D. 2.

Routine Meet Held at Park Pavilion Friday

Twenty-six members of the Mothers' Home Circle met at the North Lake park pavilion Friday for their regular session Hostesses for the day were Mrs. George Hoover, Mrs J H. Sheriff, Mrs Clara Byers, Mrs Jessie Rhoads, Mrs. F. A. Griebling and Mrs Martha Garver. The routine business session was in charge of Mrs Irene Hines, who also led the devotional period. Mrs. Gertrude Whorl gave a cash donation to be used for welfare work through the Circle.

Welfare work reports were given by the various committee chairmen The group will hold their annual picnic at John's park on July 11 at the noon hour. Officers of the Circle will arrange for the event.

New Members Welcomed at Garden Meet

Mrs B W Forkner and Mrs. H. V. Henness were welcomed as new members of the Garden Study club when the group met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Birch, 320 West Fifth street A dessert-Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock at a long table decorated with a centerpiece of pink roses in blue and white pottery. Places were laid for eight.

Following the repast the program was furnished by Mrs W. S. Valmore, who spoke on "The Romance of Herbs and Spices." The remainder of the meeting was spent socially. On June 27 Mrs. Clarence Lisle, 238 Blymyer avenue, will be hostess for the regular session.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Four men and a driver will be here with my father's armored car in less than half an hour," I told him. "They are coming up to this room in relays according to your instructions. But, I think until they come, we three should be in the other room talking, so that the man outside will not think the room is deserted and try to effect an entrance.

"I agree with you," he said. "I will instruct one of the guards outside to let them into this extra room as they arrive, cautioning them to make no sound until you come back to them. You two will go back through the hidden door and begin to chatter loudly when you get into your own suite, giving the impression that you have been in the bedroom all the time. Then I will knock upon the outer door of the suite and you will admit me. Does that sound plausible"

"Extremely so," I answered.

"Just a second," he said, and there was a subtly imperative note in his voice. "Before we go back in there, I'd like to hear your plan for capturing that man. You do not intend to have your men go out on the balcony, I am sure, for I would be down his rope ladder or whatever he has out there before they could cross the threshold."

"Oh no," I returned. "I want to have the room in darkness and the men effectually hidden until he comes into the room."

"And where, may I ask, will you be while the room is in darkness and the men effectually hidden?"

There was something in his voice which flicked me as the touch of a whiplash might have done. There was silkiness in the voice, but a distinct ring of steel beneath the silky rustle.

"Lying across my bed, pretending to be taking a nap," I said.

"No, no!" Olga protested, with as near shrillness as her trainante voice could ever reach. And her husband's "Never!" would have been a fitting thing to a timid woman.

I waited until I could banish all resentment from my voice before I answered. After all, I reminded myself, Philip Vertizen was putting all the resources of his hotel at my disposal. I must not appear ungrateful. And yet I could not give up the plan I had evolved, one calculated to bring the marauder on the balcony near enough to my father's guards to enable them to capture him.

"Are you willing to listen to my plan before you veto it?" I asked when I could control my voice.

"My dear girl!" he replied impressively. "Save for my wife's voice, there is none to which I would rather listen than yours"

I ignored the compliment and spoke calmly, slowly, steadily.

"I think you agree with me," I began. "Indeed, you just now voiced the thought that this man is so canny and crafty we shall have to use the utmost caution in dealing with him. Of course what he is after is the letter, and he is waiting his chance to get me alone and frighten me into giving it up."

"And insuring your silence forever, into the bargain," Philip Vertizen said grimly.

"That, no doubt, is what he has in mind," I returned with equal grimness. "But, remember, he does not know where the letter is, and he thinks he will have to frighten me into giving it up to him. Therefore he will not try to kill me until after he has the letter in his hands."

"A plausible theory," he said dryly, and I knew that I was making no headway against his decision to protect me against my will. "Let us hear the rest of it."

The Secret of the Marshbanks + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1941)

"No." He fell thoughtful; his linked hands dropped between his knees, his eyes on the fire "No, I was away—I was in Washington for several years after I married," he said. "But I knew she was very young and very trusting—she was not much older than you are now, when you were born, Cherry. In fact, she was younger; she was nineteen.

"And you mustn't," he went on after a moment, "you mustn't blame your father too much. He was goodhearted; he was a decent fellow in so many ways. But always ungoverned — unable to think out consequences! All through our boyhood it was Fred who got into trouble and I who got into worse trouble trying to get him out. He followed any impulse; he was sure everything would always come out right. I've always thought," the kind, quiet voice went on, "that what happened between him and your mother was the result of a single moment of wild emotion — two young things completely deprived for the moment of reason—What is it, Cherry? What's the matter, my child?"

She had gotten to her feet, reeling, ashen-faced, one hand gripping the back of a chair.

"You said—you said—" she whispered, "that — that your brother Fred—Amy's father . . ."

There was a silence. The judge was standing now too, his face as shocked as her own.

"You said that Emma had told you!"

"Yes, but not that! Not that! She only said my mother—she didn't tell me anything — she said . . ."

"Cherry!" The man's arm was about her shoulders. "Sit down," he said, "and talk with me a moment. My dear child, you mustn't take it this way! I'm sorry—I'm terribly sorry that I've shocked you!"

She was breathing hard, but she was quieter. Her eyes, very big in her pale face, met his courageously.

"It's all right," she said, "I ought to know. I ought to have known before."

And for a full long moment of silence they looked at each other, and did not speak.

"Emma was my father's nurse and my mother's housekeeper," the man presently said. "She was always a superior person, you can see that. She had been Fred's nurse and mine in the hospital when we were boys, had been widowed and came back as my father's nurse Her sister Charlotte was much younger, ten or twelve years younger; she met my brother, naturally, she used to be in the house a good deal; Fred was always around. He was married; his wife was expecting a baby of her own when all this happened. There was nothing to be done except make her comfortable and provide for the child Amy's fortune — you understand? — has nothing to do with my brother. That came through her mother's father; her grandfather Wellington, he left that to her. But what Fred could do, he did.

"The money I have been administering for you was left you by my brother—your father—and in reference to this college plan of yours," Judson Marshbanks went on, in an easier tone but still watching her keenly and anxiously. "I want to remind you that we have a balance—a comfortable balance, and any profession you would like to take up . . ."

She was not listening. She seemed like a girl made of stone.

"So you see that I am your uncle really and truly," the judge said lightly, affectionately, after a pause.

"I know," she whispered with white lips. And then, with a sudden wince of pain that contracted her young face: "Has anyone told Amy? Does Amy know?"

"No. Nobody knows. My mother, myself, Emma. Not another soul."

"Your mother! She was talking of me then, when she said she wouldn't have me in the house!"

"Did she say that?" he asked with a little frown. "Well, you must forgive a proud, unreasonable old woman. Your grandmother too, Cherry."

"My grandmother!" Her eyes were dark with bitter thought. "I think—thank you so much!—but I think I'll go upstairs. I'm tired," Cherry faltered, and was instantly in his arms sobbing against his shoulder. His hand patted her.

"I know," he said. "I know. It's very hard!"

Almost immediately she stopped crying, gulped, fumbled for her handkerchief "Amy's calling you!" she said thickly, and in another moment she was gone.

She fled upstairs and to her room and to a restless agony of thinking—to walk the floor, to pause, to burst into violent tears again and fling herself on her bed The injustice of it, humiliation of it, the cruelty of her being one of two sisters who were strangers and whose destinies touched almost the extremes of human contrast, choked and maddened her and she stopped her weeping only to pace the floor again, and again to break into self-pitying tears.

It was 8 o'clock, and she was haggard and weary, when she ran downstairs to the telephone upon a sudden desperate impulse and called a Sausalito number.

But when Kelly's heartening, pleased voice answered her, her tears came again and she could hardly make herself coherent:

"I'm in trouble and I've been crying, and I wondered if you'd come—come—come and take me for a drive!" stammered Cherry. "I—I've had—bad news—and I'm—all—all alone!"

"Trouble, Marchioness?" Kelly said, instantly concerned. "Hold everything, and I'll be there in twenty minutes, and you come on over here and have supper with me. Hey? Good girl! I was just feeling very low and blue and we'll fix each other up. I'm on my way!"

Their dinner was of eggs and toast and frothy hot chocolate, all carried to the fire and eaten sociably from the hearthstone. Kelly would not let her begin on the story of her troubles until she had eaten. Then he piled things on a tray, carried them away, came back to sit in the chair opposite her, stuffing his pipe and looking expectantly toward her.

"Now, who's been mean to you?"

She gave him a flicker of a smile, but immediately her face was serious again.

"I feel so ashamed of having bothered you with it! But I—I felt that I was going mad, and you were the only friend I could think of. I just thought that if you were coming to town you might take me for a drive. I didn't mean all this."

"I tell you my troubles," he reminded her, drawing on his pipe.

"It doesn't seem so terrible now, but it's bad enough! You see, we girls at Saint Dorothea's never know much about our families. That's part of being there. It isn't a regular school, you know. There aren't any vacations, and no relatives coming to see you. And we all get to know—we sort of understand—that we aren't like other girls, who have families and homes."

"That's the school you came from?"

"Yes. I was there thirteen years, from the time I was seven. But I remembered my mother before that, and that I had a nurse named Emma."

"Fran told me something about it."

"At least I thought she was my nurse, and I used to imagine that my mother had been—well, rich, I suppose, because someone had left money to take care of me—and that Judge Marshbanks was my guardian."

"I see. Go on, Marchioness."

"Well, then when I came down and they'd found me a position with Mrs. Porter, Emma told me one day that she was my mother's sister. She wasn't a nurse at all, she was—she is my aunt!"

"A jolt, huh?"

"I don't think it was a jolt because she was a housekeeper and because I'd always thought of her as a nurse," Cherry said with a little anxious air of trying to be quite honest, "but I think it was a sort of shock to me because she'd always been sort of—unfriendly, sort of—grim with me. She hadn't been affectionate. She hadn't acted as if she—she loved me."

Close to tears again, she looked blindly into the darting daggers and stars of the fire, and tried to steady her trembling lips.

"Even—even when she told me, she didn't say anything loving," she faltered on, in a thickened voice.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

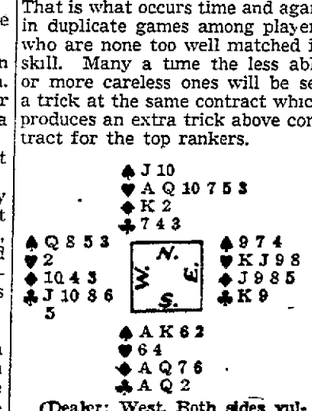
"The Authority on Authorities"

OH, WHAT A DIFFERENCE

If ordinary neat, sound, but not fancy play usually produces one more trick than careless play of a tricky hand, and superlative work produces one more trick than par, doesn't that make two tricks difference between the extremes? That is what occurs time and again in duplicate games among players who are none too well matched in skill. Many a time the less able or more careless ones will be set a trick at the same contract which produces an extra trick above contract for the top rankers.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	3 NT

Almost exactly the same bidding occurred at two tables of a duplicate where this hand was dealt, and the same defense was offered, so far as the defense had any power to defend. West led the club J. East playing the K.

One declarer took that trick with his A and finessed the heart 10 to the J. East returned the club 9, South letting West have that with the 10, and took the third club with his Q. When the heart 4 was now led, West discarding a spade, South called the A from dummy, then led the spade J, letting it lose to the Q. West now cashed his last two clubs, setting the contract.

At the other table, the declarer first counted eight immediate tricks—two in spades, one in hearts, three in diamonds and two in clubs, plus one additional absolutely certain trick by leading a low spade toward the dummy. So his game was assured. Next, planning for an extra, he decided to let East hold the first club and won the second. Then he led his spade 2. West won with the Q and shot back his club 5 to the Q. Followed then the spade J, diamond K, A, and Q, spade A and K. West had made no discards, so South knew he had three clubs. East therefore having the diamond J and heart K-J. So he led the diamond 7 to the J and East had to lead into the heart A-Q, giving declarer an extra.

Your Week-End Lesson.

With a suit headed by the A-Q-10 in the dummy and plenty of entries into both your own hand and dummy, under what circumstances should you lead to the A on the first round, when the Q. when the 10, if your effort is to take all of the tricks in the suit? This assumes, of course, that you have no indication as to the location of the missing cards in the hands of the defenders?

Prescott Sullivan, writing in the San Francisco Examiner, reports Francis Schmidt, former Ohio State coach, is keenly conscious of the comedown he experienced in the coaching ranks when he took his new job at Idaho, paying $4,500 a year, less than half what he got at Columbus or T. C. U.

From way out on the Pacific coast, Sullivan speaks with the voice of an expert on the situation at Ohio State. After you've read some of the things he says, you'll agree that distance does lend enchantment. Sullivan says:

"Schmidt's talents weren't fully appreciated at Ohio State—not because they weren't obvious, but because he failed to make peace with the many red hot football nuts in Columbus who were on him from the moment he set foot on the Ohio State campus.

"He just never thought it necessary to even attempt to soothe the hostile element. From the start his position was plain. He was a football coach and he didn't have to be a nice, ingratiating personality boy for any one.

"In short, Schmidt told the wolves where they could head in, which might have been all right had he won every game. But he lost a few, and right there the wolfpack had him."

Yes, distance had the lad enchanted,
Sully raved and Sully ranted.

All of these things will be news to the Ohio grid fans, who know that Schmidt's trouble lay in the fact that he completely lost control of his football team, that he was a play-fanatic who neglected fundamentals and who failed to get his team in condition to play a full football game, and that he harbored a grudge to the extent that he tried to turn certain All-American Don Scott into a bum last fall.

* * *

Scott went out for baseball last spring, and the story has it that Schmidt never forgave him for giving up spring football. So the only play Scott had last fall was a forward pass. It didn't take the opposition long to find that out, and the only time Scott really looked good was when he was throwing impossible heaves past a horde of pass blockers, or when he was so hemmed in he couldn't throw, and had to run with the ball.

Braves Scheduled For Double Bill

All games were rained out in the Ohio State league last night, leaving Mansfield's bid for first division and first place at stake in the Braves' double header with Lima tonight at the Fairground.

The Braves are happy that they'll not have to face Eddie Evans, Lima strikeout king, in tonight's frays. Evans hurled Thursday night in the Pandas' upset of Findlay, fanning 17 Oilers.

* * *

Tonight's game has been designated as Dad's Night, with a children under 16 admitted free when accompanied by their fathers. A season ticket will be given the father with the most children at the game.

The first tilt tonight is scheduled at 7 o'clock.

Schedule Made for Bob Feller

Regular Turn Gives Him Four Games In East.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Thanks to the schedule makers, Bob Feller probably will take the mound four times in the 12-game eastern tour which Cleveland opens here today.

Manager Roger Peckinpaugh has been adhering to his plan of using his top hurler every fourth day. The Tribe has three games each with New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Boston on this tour, with an open date between the last two series.

Feller hurls today. On the four-day intervals, that calls for him to pitch against Philadelphia on June 18, Washington June 22 and Boston June 23. And on past performances, that should enhance the league leaders' chances of a profitable journey.

The Indians came into New York from Cooperstown, N. Y., where they acquired a rather informal 2 to 1 victory in six innings yesterday over the World champion Cincinnati Reds.

The game was played to the accompaniment of considerable rain and mud, plus the antics of a hound dog which took a liking to Soup Campbell and kept tagging him over the diamond.

It was the annual major league exhibition at the "birthplace" of baseball," and was dedicated this year to Lou Gehrig.

Cleveland scored in the first when Russ Peters doubled, went to third on Ken Keltner's single and came home as Gee Walker grounded into a double play.

The Reds tied it up in the next inning on singles by Ernie Koy, Bobby Mattick and Monte Pearson, but the Tribe got the winning run in the third when Eddie Joost and Pearson each made a two-base wild throw of the wet ball.

Young Cal Dorsett went the route for Cleveland, Pearson bowing to Turner for the final inning.

One club buys them, the other sells 'em—and both extremes are equally successful.

Under Larry MacPhail, the Brooklyn Dodgers have spent close to $1,000,000 for player talent since 1938.

In the same period the St. Louis Cardinals management has received more than $350,000 on the sale of players—several of whom now grace the Dodger roster.

And today St. Louis and Brooklyn occupy the one-two positions in the National league, 10½ and 7½ games ahead of the pack and giving no indications of weakening.

In the only game played in either league yesterday the Cardinals gained a 1-0 triumph over the Flatbush team in the first of a four-game series.

Whitlow Wyatt matched Southpaw Max Lanier's performance in pitching a four-hitter, but the Cards coupled a walk and two singles in the third inning to push across their tally. After Terry Moore walked Johnny Hopp had singled him to third and Don Padgett ripped loose with a one-base drive to score him.

The National league resumes action in the west today while the American moves east.

TWO GOLF LEAGUES STOPPED BY RAIN

News-Journal B league and Women's league golf matches were rained out yesterday at Possum Run, the B leaguers taking the showers for the second straight day.

The women got in nine holes of their 18-hole matches, and will play the second nine next Wednesday. B league matches are postponed until the end of the schedule.

HARVARD CREW PUTS RECORD ON LINE

NEW LONDON, Conn.—(U.P.)—A Harvard varsity that combines precision and power places one of the nation's finest crew records on the line today, seeking to complete a sweep over Yale in the 79th renewal of their famed regatta.

Both the Harvard varsity and junior-varsity shells are odds-on choices, and the Yale freshman crew is given only an outside chance of smashing Harvard's monopoly.

Cincy Tourney Reaches Finals

Patty Berg Meets Mrs. Burt Weil For Title.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Freckle-faced, red-haired Patty Berg, 23-year-old Minneapolis professional, faced Mrs. Burt Weil, 37-year-old Cincinnati housewife, today over the 36-hole route for the Women's Western Open golf championship.

And both admit they're lucky to be scrapping for the crown, instead of sitting on the sidelines.

Miss Berg got into the finals by beating Miss Betty Jameson, the two-time National Amateur ruler from San Antonio, one up in 21 holes, after two outstanding "breaks," while Mrs. Weil said during last Monday's qualifier that she was "going along just for the ride."

The Minneapolis star plopped a 90-yard shot into the cup on the fourth green for an eagle deuce, the ball going in on the fly, for her first "break." On the 11th hole Miss Berg's ball struck the pin while Miss Jameson's caddy was holding it, and the referee awarded the hole to the Minnesota miss.

Miss Jameson, flustered, mussed up two shots on the 12th, finally conceding the hole to go two down, but she steadied and matched par on eight of the next nine holes, going one under on the 17th where she squared the match.

They halved the next three, and then Miss Berg ran down a half-stymied putt on the 21st to clinch the finals position.

* * *

Mrs. Weil, who abdicated as Ohio queen four years after winning the state championship three times in a row, has practically confined her play to week-ends since then. In yesterday's semi-finals she defeated Mrs. James D. Platt, jr., of Dayton, the state medal play queen, by 3 and 2.

Deacon Goes for Old Men

Waner Joins Greybeards On Cincinnati Club.

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— And another old man has joined the "veteran of the month" club of the Cincinnati Reds.

With the acquisition of Lloyd Waner, who was around Pittsburgh so long they nearly painted the 320-foot mark on him in right field, Manager Bill McKechnie demonstrated again he prefers 'em with wrinkles in their brows.

The baseball obituary of "Little Poison" has been in formation for the past several years but McKechnie thinks Waner still has some valuable base hits left and the Reds could use some of them right now.

Waner will feel right at home at the Redleg dinner table with such cronies as Bill Werber, Monte Pearson, Ernie Lombardi, Ernie Koy, Ival Goodman, Jimmy Ripple, Jimmy Gleeson, Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters.

All of the boys have been around long enough to discuss with professional expertness the architectural changes in major league ball parks in the last 10 years.

In a desperate three-year search for a stable left fielder and hard-hitting outfielders, mild-mannered McKechnie has paraded the boys in and out of Crossley field with such remarkable rapidity that upon entering the park, Redleg followers remark, "I wonder who the new guy in the outfield is today."

Here is a list of the boys who have had a crack at the left field spot in the last three years, not counting those who have sneaked in at night: Wally Berger, Lee Gamble, Al Simmons, Jimmy Gleeson, Jimmy Ripple, Tony Bongiovanni, Frenchy Bordagaray, Mike Dejan, Dick West, Mike McCormick, Dan Haffey, Morrie Arnovich, Vince Dimaggio, Johnny Rizzo and Ernie Koy.

Reading from left to right, the ages of the Redleg veterans are: Gleeson, 28; Goodman, 32; Ripple, 32; Werber, 33; Walters, 31; Derringer, 35; Lombardi, 33; Koy, 29; Pearson, 31; and Waner, 35.

Waner has batted over .300 during 14 years of his major league career and came to the Reds with a .412 reading.

Nelson and Hogan Tied for Lead

GIRARD —(AP)— With National Open Champion Craig Wood five strokes off the pace, a half dozen of the nation's golf stars scrambled for the position of favorite today as the $5,000 Mahoning Valley Open went into the second 18.

The 72-hole classic started, the sideline boys leaned toward the long hitters and two of them, brawny Lawson Little and Pennsylvania's Ben Hogan, came through the first test sharing the lead with scorching three-under-par 67's. They were forced to divide early honors with Byron Nelson, the P. G. A. champion, who quietly ripped the course apart with his comparatively short game that stresses deadly irons.

Clayton Heafner, the strapping sharpshooter from Linville, N. C., was only one back with a 68 and the 69 cards carried the names of Jimmy Thomson of Chicopee, Mass.; Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va.; Ted Luther of Wilkinsburg, Pa., and Al Espinosa of Akron.

Despite his poor start, due to a seven on the second hole, Wood was far from out of the running. His drives strayed a bit on the opening rounds, but his irons were clicking and the player with long woods and a good No. 7 iron stands a fine chance to cop the $1,200 top prize.

After today's firing the field of 154 will be trimmed to 60 professionals and 15 amateurs for tomorrow's 36-hole finals.

Baseball Trade Deadline Brings Bargain Offers

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK—(AP)—This is dollar day in the big leagues and all the clubs have their "end of bargain sale" signs on display.

The majors have been seething with trade talk for a couple days, but it finally has reached the showdown stage because tomorrow is the last day this season that trades may be made, except through waivers.

Babe Phelps, chubby Brooklyn catcher with a lifetime bating average of .315, is one of the bargains known to be on the shelf. The Dodgers brought up Catcher Herman Franks from their Montreal farm yesterday, fined Phelps $500 and suspended him indefinitely because he failed to accompany the club on its western invasion.

No one made any secret that the Dodgers are trying to make a deal for the 33-year-old veteran of seven seasons in the National league.

Phelps remained at home in Maryland last spring instead of accompanying the club to Havana for training and was relegated to second-string backstop. He pleaded illness and likewise said he was ill Thursday when he did not show up on the Dodgers' train to St. Louis.

But last night Manager Leo Durocher said he was through with Phelps and did not want him on the club any longer. The catcher retorted that he, too, wished he would be traded.

* * *

Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds said yesterday at Cooperstown, N. Y., before the exhibition with the Cleveland Indians that he was "sure there will be some trading before the deadline. I am sure we are not going to have to hurt ourselves very much to make a deal if we want it."

He refused to amplify this statement, but, with seven outfielders on his roster he is in a good position to dicker.

SETTLE ASSOCIATION LEAD THIS WEEK-END

(By Associated Press)

Columbus and Kansas City, the one-two teams in the American Association race, will decide first place between them over the week-end.

Joe Louis Trains for Conn Bout

Takes Next Defense of His Title Seriously.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK —(AP)— Those who are predicting that Billy Conn will win the heavyweight championship next Wednesday night because Joe Louis made a rather messy job of beating Buddy Baer are laying themselves open to a painful surprise. Conn, of course, is included.

The Joe Louis who is getting ready to stalk Billy Boy under the Polo Grounds lights is a different customer from the heat-sufferer who approached the Baer bout with a sort of weary indifference, knowing he could stop Buddy whenever he got ready and seeing no reason to hurry.

"That was awful," Joe says, now. "I trained under a tin roof down there."

The day before the Baer fight Louis sat in his dressing room and sweltered, his mind wandering casually to baseball and the army. When asked how quickly he expected to knock out Baer he roused himself only sufficiently to say "It don't pay to get in a hurry this kind of weather."

And that was about the way he fought Buddy, exchanging licks almost casually, even after Buddy's ponderous left halfknocked, half-shoved him through the ropes in the opening chapter.

Then Baer opened a cut on Joe's left eyelid, and, while they patched up the eye between rounds, Joe's handlers, Jack Blackburn and Julian Black, told him to give Buddy the works and take no chances on the wound being worsened.

* * *

Louis hurried across the ring and began chopping Baer down like he was using an axe in either hand. Buddy was a terribly-beaten fighter when the round ended. The punch that felled him after the bell and which caused all the hulla-baloo did not affect the outcome. Referee Arthur Donovan would not have let Louis hit the dizzy Buddy more than about once more.

ONTARIO BOOKED

"Woods and Waters"
By YUNCKER BROS.

Good news for fishermen in this vicinity! A decision was reached this week opening both sides of Charles Mill Reservoir for fishing from next Monday to Labor Day. The waters north of Route 30 were closed last year and were used as a spawning area, and this 435 acres brings the total fishing waters at Charles Mill up to 950 acres.

If you fall into the water from a boat, don't get panicky. Once in the water, don't thrash around, but hang on to the boat lightly until you are pulled out or towed ashore. Boats do not sink and will support you for quite a while, if you hang on to them gently.

In the Everglades panthers or pumas, capable of killing a year old ox, bears, deer or otter, still exist in considerable numbers.

Get ready fishermen! Yuncker's "Big Bass Derby" gets under way next Monday. Each week, for four weeks, the fisherman or fisherwoman who takes the biggest bass of the week, will be awarded a prize of $3.00 in fishing tackle. And there's a grand prize of $10.00 worth of tackle, besides. If you are lucky enough to take an "old lunker," bring it to Yuncker's store for weighing or measuring . . . who knows . . . it may be a winner.

* * *

You'll find it easier to take the big fellows, if you have the right fishing tackle to do it with. There's still time to drop in at this store, this afternoon or tonight, to select the things you'll need to start off the season, on Monday.

* * *

This comes from Imperial, California. Three men netting fish illegally in the lonely Salton Sea, believed themselves safe from observation. But they soon were before a court and fined $500.00 apiece, proving the efficiency of the new aerial patrol service operated by the state division of fish and game.

I—VITAL STATISTICS

2—Card of Thanks

WE DESIRE to express our deep appreciation to those who showed so much kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Alice Sayles. Thanking the Wappner Funeral Home, Rev. Sheriff and the many friends and neighbors.
Mr. and Mrs. John Fry, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sayles, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Burnham.

WE WISH to express our sincere thanks to those who sent floral tributes, to Rev. Gilbert for his comforting words, the Wappner Funeral Directors for their efficient service, to kind neighbors and friends who helped in any way, during the illness and death of husband, father and brother.
The Bolesky Family.

THAT'S WHY I'VE COME TO YOU — I'VE SOME MONEY THAT DOESN'T BELONG TO ME AND I CAN'T FIND THE OWNER
SO PAM GIVES THE POLICE DETECTIVE THE DETAILS OF HER EXPERIENCE
YOU DON'T SAY? WELL, YOU COULD BE IN LOTS WORSE TROUBLE THAN THAT!
TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FIVE DOLLARS! — THAT IS ODD, ISN'T IT?
I THOUGHT SOME LOSS LIKE THAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN REPORTED TO THE POLICE
HARDLY LIKELY IF THEY WOULDN'T EVEN SEE AN AD IN THE PAPERS, BUT I'LL INVESTIGATE. WHEN DID YOU FIND IT?
WHY, A WEEK AGO LAST WEDNESDAY
HARRY, GO THROUGH THE RECORDS, BEGINNING JUNE FOURTH, AND SEE IF ANY ONE REPORTED LOSING A ROLL OF MONEY — TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FIVE DOLLARS!

Rubber Company Shareholders Note Tire Shipments At 12-Year Peak.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Price trends were a trifle spotty in today's early stock market proceedings.

Up fractionally at a quiet opening were Standard Oil (N. J.), Anaconda, J. I. Case, Youngstown Sheet and General Electric. Small declines were registered for Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber and Du Pont.

Those interested in rubber company shares noted estimates that tire shipments in May and the first five months of 1941 established a 12-year peak. Replacement sales during the month also were said to have touched a new high since 1929.

U. S. TREASURY REPORT

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Treasury balance as of June 12 was: $2,547,473,472.30.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, June 15.

Sunday's horoscope holds augury of an exceptionally lively day, with business interests as well as all social, personal, domestic and emotional interests moving at high tempo. All pertaining to the young, to travel, recreation, communications, writings and kindred matters should thrive. But there is danger from excess, extravagance, and a tax upon the good nature and generosity at the hands of too insistent or dubious friends. Be circumspect in all associations.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a swift moving year, with much liveliness and excitement in all phases of life, private as well as business. It may be a time for forging ahead in all pertaining to writings, publishing, promotion, travel and affairs of youth, while at the same time putting the brakes on in the way of expenditures, outlay, indulgence and excessive generosity. Doubtful friends may be costly, particularly where social, sentimental or even domestic demands may be excessive. In all relations use discretion and restraints. Choose wisely.

A child born on this day may be generous, indulgent, cordial and hospitable to an unwarranted degree, carried away by its kindly impulses as well as importunities of so-called friends.

For Monday, June 16.

Monday's astrological forecast may be a rather adverse one, although there is promise of benefits or good fortune of a surprising nature may result if sound judgment, wise tactics and the determination to win against definite odds are used. Try for calmness and poise rather than indulgence in tempest, fury, rash and impetuous conduct. Also there is deep-dyed treachery to be vanquished.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which their own self-control, calmness, cool judgment and sound methods in grasping a sudden opportunity may avert disaster and swerve affairs to the profit side. Be alert to deep treacheries and schemes and regulate the personal temper.

A child born on this day may have some sterling qualities and unusual talents despite a turbulent, wayward and passionate nature.

PUGET SOUND LUMBER STRIKE BREAKING UP

Three Locals Plan to Resume Work Monday Under Board Of Mediation Plan.

repair in yards employing about 17,000 men.

In Washington legislation empowering the president to take over strikebound defense plants was tentatively approved by the house military committee yesterday, with final decision postponed until Monday. Already passed by the senate, the measure would permit federal seizure if management or union refused to make use of federal mediation and conciliation agencies, and would authorize the use of troops to prevent illegal picketing.

Members of the CIO-UAW at Newark, N. J., suspended 10 of their group last night pending a union trial on charges of instigating a 90-minute walkout Monday at the Brewester Aeronautical corporation's Long Island City, N. Y., plant.

About 50 men were involved.

Purge Plan Threatens Revolt Among Labor

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Efforts of President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organization to "purge" the CIO leadership of subversive elements threatened to cause an open revolt within the ranks of labor.

Administration leaders have given both the CIO and the rival American Federation of Labor virtual orders to clean house of leftwing agitators or see stringent federal action taken to have the agitators ousted.

CIO officials have been given a list of officers of affiliated unions who are suspected by the government of having fomented strikes in defense industries more to hinder the rearmament program than to improve the condition of workers. Names on the list have not been revealed but are said to include many of the 113 CIO members listed as communists by the Dies congressional committee investigating unAmerican activities.

Murray declined to discuss reports that he had sanctioned a far-reaching drive on CIO radicals, but his recent actions showed a decision to curb them. He sanctioned the purge of California CIO leaders who called an unauthorized strike at the Inglewood, Cal., plant of Northern American Aviation company. He and his aides have had a "trial board" sitting here since Wednesday considering the cases of Joseph Curran, head of the CIO maritime union, and O. M. Orton, leader of 12,000 striking Puget Sound loggers and timbermen, who openly defied Murray's order to accept a national defense mediation board "back-to-work" recommendation.

HELD ON BOGUS MONEY CHARGES

Mansfielder Pleads Guilty, Reported to Have Linked Others In Ring.

had no record of Stragala, he believed he might be the man who passed two bogus $10 bills in Lucas this spring.

Stragala is being held in custody of U. S. marshals at Columbus until he can be sentenced. It was reported that information given by the Mansfield man aided government agents in arresting the others.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Ray O'Donnell said the indictment resulted from a year of investigation by Secret Service men. He alleged that the counterfeit money had been "passed" in various Ohio cities, Louisville, Ky., and Knoxville, Tenn.

O'Donnell admitted that treasury agents had been unable to locate the alleged plant where the money was manufactured. Date for the trial of the three men will be named sometime next week, Judge Underwood said.

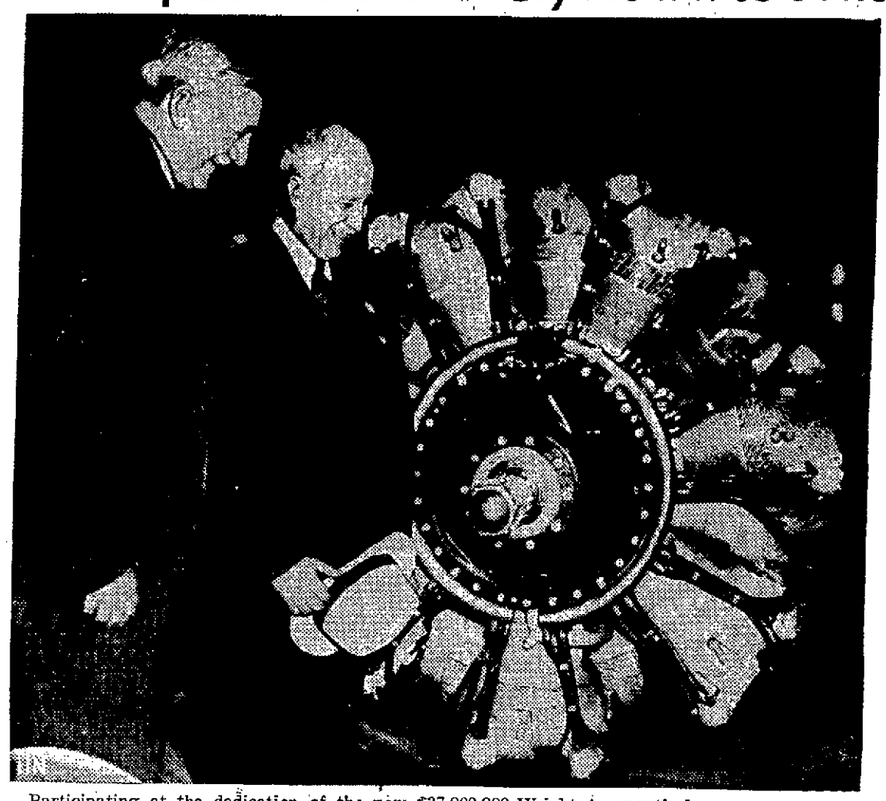
New Airplane Motor a Far Cry From 1903's First



Participating at the dedication of the new $37,000,000 Wright Aeronautical corporation plant in Cincinnati, O., William S. Knudsen, left, director of the Office of Production Management, and Orville Wright, air pioneer, inspect a new Cyclone, 14-cylinder, 1,700-horsepower motor, a far cry from the four-cylinder, 40-44-horsepower motor used in the Wright brothers' first airplanes in 1903. Full time production at the plant will approximate 1,000 engines a month.

TILLIE THE TOILER

MAC, I'VE BOUGHT A SOLUTION THAT I THINK WILL GET RID OF THAT HELIOTROPE ODOR IN YOUR BULLET-PROOF SWEATER
I HOPE YOU'RE RIGHT
I'M SURE THIS'LL DO IT_ THE CHEMISTRY BOOK CAN'T BE WRONG
MAC! THE HELIOTROPE ODOR'S ALL GONE
GOSH! NOW IT'S BEGUN TO DRY IT SMELLS LIKE BURNT ONIONS
Russ Westover
MAC - NOW THAT THE SWEATER'S COMPLETELY DRY, THE BURNT-ONION ODOR IS GONE
GET THE PISTOL. I'LL HANG THIS UP ON A TREE - NOW WE'LL SEE IF IT'S REALLY BULLET-PROOF
OKAY
BANG
HELP! YOU'VE SHOT ME!
Russ Westover
HAW! HAW!
WALLY! WHAT'S THE IDEA OF MAKING ME THINK I'D SHOT YOU?
YOU LUG
6-11
THERE'S NO SIGN OF A HOLE— IF I HIT THE SWEATER IT'S BULLET-PROOF
LET ME SHOOT ONCE AND MAKE SURE, TILLIE
OKAY— GO AHEAD
HAW-HAW-THAT WAS NO TEST - THE THING'S LOADED WITH BLANKS
Russ Westover
THESE ARE REAL CARTRIDGES - NOW WE'LL FIND OUT IF THE SWEATER IS BULLET-PROOF
6-12
BANG BANG. BANG BANG BANG BANG
GOLLY TILLIE- THERE ISN'T EVEN A DENT IN IT
NO WONDER, TILLIE, THIS IS WHERE YOUR BULLETS HIT
Russ Westover
I WAS KIDDING - THERE ARE NO BULLET HOLES ON THIS OTHER TREE
YOU HIT THE SWEATER ALL RIGHT. THERE ARE SOME VERY SLIGHT DENTS
MAC, I'M SO GLAD THE SWEATER IS REALLY BULLET-PROOF
BOY, AM I PROUD! I JUST HAD TO PUT IT ON NOW EVERY-THING'S SET FOR MAC TO MAKE A FORTUNE
6-13
GOSH, TILLIE, WHEREVER THIS SWEATER TOUCHES MY SKIN, IT ITCHES UN-BEARABLY
Russ Westover
THE BULLET PROOF SWEATER SEEMED ALL RIGHT, BUT NOW MAC SAYS IT ITCHES HIM. GOSH DO YOU SUPPOSE THE CHEMICAL I USED TO RE-MOVE THE HELIOTROPE ODOR DID IT?
I DON'T FEEL SO MUCH ITCH-ING, NOW THAT THE SWEATER'S OFF, TILLIE
SWELL, MAYBE EVERY-THING WILL BE ALL RIGHT
6-14
GOSH, MY SHOULDER'S GOT A RASH
MAC, THE RASH IS ALL OVER YOUR CHEST AND BACK
MERCY! MAYBE THE CHEMICALS WE USED ARE DEADLY

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

GEE, ZERO — AIN'T EVERYTHING GRAND? WHEN I FIRST MET CAPTAIN AN' MRS. JIM, I THOUGHT THEY WAS TERRIBLE POOR — THEY WAS LIVING IN THE LITTLE PIECE OF WHAT WAS LEFT OF THEIR SHIP, THE 'HUMMING BIRD,' AFTER IT WAS WRECKED IN A DREADFUL STORM —
MOST OF THEIR STUFF WAS LOST IN THE WRECK AN' THEY DIDN'T HAVE ANY MONEY OR ANYTHING — BUT WHEN THE INSURANCE COMPANY PAID THEM, THEN THEY HAD LOTSA MONEY
DARRELL McCLURE
NOW, THEIR SON, ROBERT, CAME HOME AN' HE OWNS A GREAT, BIG, BEAUTIFUL SHIP — AN' HE SAID HE LIKED ME AN' WANTED ME TO BE HIS LITTLE SISTER — AIN'T IT SWELL!?!
WUFF!
MY GOODNESS GRACIOUS — THAT'S A TERRIBLE FANCY-LOOKIN' CAR — IT MUSTA COST A LOTTA MONEY
HUH — I WOULDN'T RIDE IN IT, IF YOU GAVE ME A MILLION DOLLARS! ALWAYS RUSHING ALONG, BLOWING THE HORN TO MAKE EVERYBODY GET OUT OF IT'S WAY
MA SEZ = JUST 'CAUSE SHE'S MARRIED TO A RICH MAN LIKE CAPTAIN ROBERT SALTEE, HIS WIFE THINKS SHE'S BETTER THAN ANYBODY IN TOWN
RAKKK
DARRELL McCLURE
-10
YOU MEAN THAT CAR BELONGS TO CAPTAIN JIM'S SON, ROBERT??
YES, HE OWNS IT, BUT HE HARDLY EVER RIDES IN IT — 'CAUSE HE AIN'T A BIT UPPITY — HE JUST WALKS AROUND ACTING NICE AN' FRIENDLY
YES, SIREE — THIS FISH CHOWDER IS JUST ABOUT READY FOR US — AN' I FIGGER WE'RE ABOUT READY FOR SOME FISH CHOWDER
IT SMELLS TERRIBLE NICE
HOWDY, CAPTAIN EZRA — IT'S GOOD TO SEE YOU AGAIN — YOU LOOK YOUNGER AND HEALTHIER EVERY TIME I COME IN TO PORT!
STOW THE BLARNEY — YOU BIG LUMMOX
GEE, IT'S CAPTAIN ROBERT
EVEN WHEN YOU WERE A YOUNG SARDINE, YOU COULD SMELL MY FISH CHOWDER A-COOKIN', IF YOU WERE AT THE NORTH POLE!
DARRELL McCLURE
BUST MY BUTTONS, BOB, IF THIS AIN'T A PICTURE — THERE'S LITTLE ANNIE — A-SITTIN' IN YOUR CHAIR EATIN' FISH CHOWDER OUT OF THE SAME BOWL YOU USED WHEN YOU WERE HER AGE — 'SEEMS LIKE IT WAS ONLY YESTERDAY
GEE, ZERO — AIN'T IT FUNNY THE WAY THINGS HAPPEN? I GUESS EVERYBODY WANTS SOMETHIN' THEY AIN'T GOT —
ALL THE SCHOOL KIDS ARE COUNTING THE DAYS UNTIL VACATION TIME STARTS AN' THEY WON'T HAFTA GO TO SCHOOL —
AN' I KEEP WISHIN' I COULD GO TO SCHOOL EVERY DAY — BUT I CAN'T GO TO SCHOOL UNTIL I LIVE IN A HOUSE LIKE REGULAR KIDS DOES
DARRELL McCLURE
BUT CAPTAIN JIM SEZ = AFTER THE 'HUMMING BIRD' SAILS AWAY, I'M GONNA LIVE IN A HOUSE AN' GO TO SCHOOL, TOO — GEE, ZERO, WON'T IT BE LOTSA FUN?
WUFF
NOW, ABBIE, STOP WORRYING — YOU KNOW 'MOST EVERY FAMILY IN TOWN IS TRYING TO GET LITTLE ANNIE TO LIVE WITH'EM
I'LL BEJEWEL'D IF SOME OF 'EM AREN'T TRYIN' TO BRIBE ME INTO DECIDING IN THEIR FAVOR
I KNOW — DOZENS OF THEM HAVE ASKED ME
BUT YOU KNOW, JIM — THE SOONER WE DECIDE THE BETTER IT WILL BE FOR ALL CONCERNED — I'M WORRYING, BECAUSE I KNOW LITTLE ANNIE IS WORRYING
HUMMI
CLYMC
HONEST, ZERO — I'LL BETCHA YOU THINK I'M KINDA GOOFY — WALKIN' ALL OVER TOWN, LOOKIN' AT EVERY HOUSE AN' PRETENDIN' I'M GONNA LIVE IN IT
DARRELL McCLURE
I TOLD JANE THAT AFTER THE 'HUMMING BIRD' SAILS AWAY, YOU ARE GOING TO LIVE AT MY HOUSE — BUT JANE SEZ I'M TELLING FIBS
MY MOTHER SAID = FATHER ASKED CAPTAIN JIM TO LET YOU COME TO LIVE AT OUR HOUSE — WE GOT A LITTLE BED IN MY ROOM WHERE YOU'RE GOING TO SLEEP, AND —
GEE — IT'S AWFUL NICE FOR YOU BOTH TO WANT ME TO LIVE AT YOUR HOUSE — 'CAUSE I THINK YOU'RE BOTH GRAND — BUT —
DARRELL McCLURE
G-14
I WON'T KNOW WHERE I'M GONNA LIVE UNTIL CAPTAIN JIM AN' MRS. JIM TELLS ME — THEY'RE TERRIBLE SMART AN' CAPTAIN JIM SEZ THEY'RE GONNA DO WHAT'S BEST FOR ME

TOOTS AND CASPER

COLONEL HOOFER, ONE DAY SOON I WANT YOU TO COME HERE AND PRETEND YOU'RE MY BUTLER.
BUT, CASPER, WHY?
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
NEVER MIND WHY! YOU'VE GOT TO DO IT FOR ME! IT'S A FAVOR I'LL NEVER FORGET.
OKAY, YOU WIN!
THAT'S BETTER, BUT WHEN YOU COME IN BOW LOWER AND DROP YOUR ARMS TO YOUR SIDES....NOW LET'S REHEARSE IT AGAIN!
DID YOU RING, SIR?
JIMMY MURPHY
I DON'T KNOW WHAT CASPER HAS UP HIS SLEEVE, BUT IT MUST BE VERY IMPORTANT.
GEE, IF I CAN ONLY PUT IT OVER! I'VE GOT TO PUT IT OVER.
6-9
DANNY, ONE DAY SOON I WANT YOU TO DO ME A BIG FAVOR!
I'LL DO ANYTHING I CAN, CASPER!
I WANT YOU TO PRETEND YOU'RE MY CHAUFFEUR---JUST FOR A FEW MINUTES! YOU'LL HAVE TO WEAR A DARK SUIT AND A CHAUFFEUR'S CAP.
WHAT'S THE GAG?
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
NO GAG, DANNY! I CAN'T TELL YOU ABOUT IT YET, BUT IT'S GONNA MEAN A LOT TO ME
OKAY! I'LL DO IT AND NO QUESTIONS ASKED!
JIMMY MURPHY
THIS IS ONE TIME I MUST NOT FAIL! I'M PLAYING A LONE HAND, AND IF ALL GOES WELL, I'LL BE SITTING PRETTY!
WHAT IS THE MOTIVE BEHIND CASPER'S STRANGE REQUEST?
DID YOU RING, SIR?
SPLENDID, YOU'VE GOT IT DOWN PAT, COL. HOOFER! OFCOURSE, WHEN THE TIME COMES, WEAR YOUR TUXEDO
WILL THAT BE ALL, SIR?
FINE, DANNY, FINE... ONLY ON THE BIG DAY YOU'LL WEAR A CHAUFFEUR'S CAP AND A DARK SUIT.
Copr. 1941 King Features Syndicate Inc., World rights reserved.
CASPER, WE'RE GLAD TO DO YOU THE FAVOR, BUT WHY DO YOU WANT US TO POSE AS YOUR BUTLER AND CHAUFFEUR?
DON'T ASK QUESTIONS, BOYS! JUST TRUST ME AND I'LL ALWAYS BE GRATEFUL TO YOU.
I WONDER WHAT'S BEHIND ALL THIS ANYWAY, DANNY?
I'D LIKE TO KNOW WHAT THE GAG IS, ANYWAY!
JIMMY MURPHY
YES, WHAT IS CASPER'S MOTIVE?
WHAT IS HE UP TO, ANYWAY?
HE'S GOT US ALL CURIOUS!
CASPER, I'M GOING OUT OF THE CITY FOR A WEEK OR SO!
I'LL TAKE GOOD CARE OF EVERYTHING WHILE YOU'RE GONE, MR PLUNKER
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
INCIDENTALLY, WHEN MY WIFE'S JEWELS COME FROM THE JEWELER LOCK THEM UP IN MY SAFE..... I TRIED TO STOP THEIR MESSENGER, BUT HE HAD ALREADY LEFT.
I'LL ATTEND TO IT, BOSS
OH, BOY! THIS FITS RIGHT IN WITH MY PLAN! I CAN LET TOOTS WEAR THE BOSS' JEWELS FOR THE OCCASION AND HE'D NEVER BE THE WISER--- HMM-M-
WITH COL. HOOFER POSING AS MY BUTLER--- DANNY PRETENDING HE'S MY CHAUFFEUR, AND WITH TOOTS COVERED WITH DIAMONDS! BOY! MY SCHEME IS SURE FIRE!
JIMMY MURPHY
6-12
NOW CASPER HAS US ALL GUESSING! WHAT HAS HE UP HIS SLEEVE, ANYWAY?
CASPER, WHAT ARE YOU ACTING SO MYSTERIOUS ABOUT?
ASK ME NO QUESTIONS, TOOTS, AND I'LL TELL YOU NO LIES... I'VE GOTTA HURRY TO THE OFFICE NOW.
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
I'VE A PACKAGE HERE FOR MR PLUNKER PERSONALLY.
YES, I KNOW! IT'S FROM THE JEWELER! I'LL SIGN FOR IT! HE'S OUT OF THE CITY
THE BOSS TOLD ME TO PUT THESE IN HIS SAFE, BUT I HAVE OTHER PLANS! HE'LL NEVER KNOW IT IF I LET TOOTS WEAR THESE JEWELS FOR A COUPLE OF HOURS ON THE BIG NIGHT.
JIMMY MURPHY
OH, BOY! WITH ME SUPPOSEDLY HAVING A CHAUFFEUR AND A BUTLER, AND WITH MY WIFE ADORNED IN JEWELS WORTH A FORTUNE... WOWIE! MY PLAN CAN'T MISS!
DON'T YOU WISH CASPER WOULD LET US KNOW WHAT HE'S UP TO?
6-13
PST, TOOTS, TRY ON THESE JEWELS.... I'VE GOT THE DOORS AND WINDOWS BOLTED.
ARE THEY PHONY, CASPER?
Copr. 1941, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
NOSIREE! THEY'RE REAL! WORTH A FORTUNE.
REAL?
YES, REAL! THEY BELONG TO MY BOSS! HE'S OUT OF TOWN, AND I'M SUPPOSED TO PUT 'EM IN HIS SAFE.
THEN WHAT ARE YOU DOING WITH THEM HERE?
JIMMY MURPHY
I WANT YOU TO WEAR 'EM ONE EVENING SOON! I'M COOKIN' UP A CLEVER SCHEME, TOOTS! NOW LISTEN CAREFULLY, AND I'LL TELL YOU ALL ABOUT IT---
6-14
AH-H! AT LONG LAST WE'RE GOING TO FIND OUT CASPER'S PLAN, BUT WE'LL HAVE TO WAIT UNTIL MONDAY TO HEAR IT.

IF IT HAPPENS LATE SATURDAY OR EARLY SUNDAY MORNING

It Will Be In The Sunday Edition of News-Journal

ETTA KETT

"ACE" is making his first solo flight today and ETTA is over to give him a hand... HE'S UP
WHY DOESN'T HE LAND?
WHAT DO YA MEAN, WHY DOESN'T HE SIT DOWN? MAYBE IT'S COOL UP THERE!" MAYBE--
DON'T KID ME! HE'S BEEN UP CIRCLING AROUND FOR AN HOUR. SOMETHING'S WRONG
"ACE" HAS LOST HIS NERVE!" HE'S AFRAID TO MAKE A LANDING! HE MUST BE ABOUT OUT OF GAS!
WHY DOESN'T HE BAIL OUT?
NOT ENOUGH ALTITUDE!" THERE GOES THE ENGINE. IT'S QUIT!!!
I'M GOING!" I CAN'T WATCH!"
ETTA DEAR!" YOU'RE CRYING! WHAT ON EARTH IS THE MATTER?
IT'S ACE!" HE WAS MAKING HIS FIRST SOLO FLIGHT--AND--AND HE-- OH!" DON'T TELL ME HE--CRASHED??
THERE'S THE 'PHONE!" MAYBE IT'S FROM THE HOSPITAL!!?
HELLO! HELLO!" LONG-DISTANCE CALLING! GO AHEAD--HERE'S YOUR PARTY!"
IT'S THAT GIRL!" YOU KNOW THE ONE HE'S ENGAGED TO??!! SHE WANTS TO TALK TO HIM--WHAT IN THE WORLD WILL I TELL HER?
SHE MUST HAVE HAD A FEELING THAT SOMETHING WAS WRONG!"
LONG-DISTANCE?? YOU WANT TO SPEAK TO LIEUTENANT--MILLER--HE'S--WAIT!" HOLD THE 'PHONE!"
PLEASE OMIT FLOWERS!
YAHOO!
"ACE"!!--WELL, BAT MY EYES!"--!!--I THOUGHT SURE YOU CRASHED!
JUST BECAUSE HE'S MAKING A SOLO FLIGHT--?--AND RUNS OUT OF GAS--?--HE SET THAT PLANE DOWN LIKE HE WAS LANDING ON EGGS!
HI, YA ANGEL-CAKE! THE ONLY THING BROKEN IS MY HEART!"--AND YOU CRACKED THAT UP!"
MIGOSH!" THAT GIRL YOU'RE ENGAGED TO IS ON THE 'PHONE!" SHE HEARD YOU!"
GOOD GRAVY!" I FORGOT!" THAT GIRL YOU'RE ENGAGED TO, IS ON THE 'PHONE!"
YOU MEAN ELLAMARY?
SHE CALLED AS YOU CAME IN--, I TOLD HER TO HOLD THE LINE!"
SHE MUST'A HEARD ME SAY I'M CRAZY ABOUT YOU!"--THE RECEIVER IS OFF!!!
WORM! TERMITE! GOON!
THAT'S ONE WAY TO BREAK OFF AN ENGAGEMENT! TELL HER TO SEND THE RING C.O.D!
HELLO, CUPCAKE!" ZZZ... HELLO!" HELLO!"
GUESS SHE HUNG UP! OH, WELL--SHE HAD TO FIND OUT ABOUT YOU SOONER OR LATER, ANYWAY!"
NATURALLY!
I'M SORRY YOU BOYS HAVE TO LEAVE--IT WAS SO NICE HAVING YOU LIVE WITH US!
THANKS FOR THE SWELL EATS, MRS. KETT!"
WITH ETTA AROUND, WELL PRACTICALLY LIVE HERE, ANYWAY!"
HOPE YOU LIKE THE NEW BARRACKS HOW ARE THEY?
I'LL MISS RAIDING THE ICE BOX!
ALL THE COMFORTS OF HOME!
THE NEW COMMANDANT LANDS IN TODAY! ALL YOU GUYS REPORT FOR THE BIG DRESS PARADE!
YES, SIR!
DON'T FORGET THE BIG DEDICATION BALL TONIGHT! YOU AND I HAVE A DATE!"
RIGHT!
THAT'S WHAT HE THINKS!--and what a surprise he'll get!
I ADORE MILITARY DANCES!
WONDER WHAT THE MOB SCENE IS ABOUT!"
IT'S THE NEW COMMANDANT'S DAUGHTER!
I'D BETTER PAY MY RESPECTS OR SOMETHING!
ELLAMARY?
REMEMBER ME? I'M THE GIRL YOU'RE ENGAGED TO! DON'T ACT SO SHELL-SHOCKED!
FATHER WAS AN OFFICER IN THE RESERVE!--HE'S BEEN APPOINTED COMMANDANT HERE! WHO IS THAT PRETTY GIRL YOU WERE DANCING WITH?
OH!--OH--THAT'S ETTA KETT! JUST A GIRL I HAPPENED TO MEET!
